Soviet blocking a treaty. If agreement can be reached on a test ban pact, President Kennedy has announced he will cancel next month's scheduled start on a new series of U.S. atmospheric tests.

The Russian announcement was made by Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin at a news conference. His statement coincided with information from Western delegations that the United States and Britain have finally agreed on concessions to offer Russia in an effort to meet Soviet objections to international inspection.

The offer probably will be made Tuesday. It is understood that the Western powers would reduce the number of inspection trips which teams of international inspectors could make around the Soviet Union. Much Soviet territory also would be eliminated from any inspection at all.

Leaders Fear
Red Coup in Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP)—A decisive turn appeared imminent today in the week-long revolt against Guatemala's government as opposition leaders sought army support for a non-Communist front to replace embattled President Miguel Ydigoras.

Fearful the student-led uprising might lead to a Red coup, leaders of three major opposition parties tried to line up backing also from business, agricultural, educational and professional groups.

The government continued to broadcast claims it had the crisis under control, but a leading opposition figure told a reporter, "The situation is worsening by the minute."

"We believe the only way it can be saved is for Ydigoras to resign and be replaced by a civilian-military directorate which will hold free elections," he said.

The three parties which have formed an anti-Communist, anti-Ydigoras bloc are the National Liberation Movement, the Christian Democracy party and the Revolutionary party.

Federal Control in Peron Provinces

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Arturo Frondizi today ordered federal control in all provinces where Peronists won in Sunday's nationwide congressional and provincial elections.

The president will name civilian or military leaders to head the government in the provinces where followers of Peron gave the president and his government a sharp setback in Sunday's election of provincial governors and some members of his congress.

Should the president continue federal control past May 1, when the officials elected Sunday are to take office, the action could have the effect of nullifying the results of the election.

30 Seats Won

Latest unofficial returns showed that followers of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron won more than 30 seats in the national Congress and 10 governors' posts including that of Buenos Aires Province, which is second to the presidency in political power and prestige.

Fronzizi acted at about 5 a.m. after Argentina's armed forces chiefs met with Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo to consider whether to form a military junta to deal with the crisis.

The military chiefs called on Fronzizi to intervene and demanded the resignation of Vitolo.

Bell Tells of Chief Clark's Attempt to Influence Stilp

Mayor Says Word 'Bribe'
Not Used in Conversation

MENASHA—Police Chief Peter P. Clark today heard the mayor "withdraw" the speeding charge of Neenah tell the police and filed against Richard W. O'Brien, a Menasha commissioner, one of the five hearing the charges against Clark.

Stilp said Clark on Nov. 3, 1961 had asked "a personal favor" of withdrawing the charge. "I told Pete I didn't withdraw charges and never will. I told him to talk to the arresting officer. He said he did and was not able. He said it could be worth a $100 bill. I said 'Pete, stop that.' Pete then said he would be glad to pay the fine, but I told him the defendant must sign the stipulation."

Stilp said he had been greatly upset after Clark's visit. Stilp added that he had made no written report, but had told Bell orally about the visit.

Clark did not testify this morning.

Under persistent questioning from City Atty. Richard Steffens and cross-examination from Clark's attorney, Charles Wildermuth, Berlin, Mayor Bell held to his testimony that Neenah Chief Irving Stilp had never specifically used the word "bribery" in describing his conversation with Clark.

Talks to Stilp

"As nearly as I can remember," Bell said, "Chief Stilp came to me at a date of which I have no precise recollection—it must have been two or three months ago—and he reported that a traffic ticket had been given to a man named O'Brien, who is a resident of Menasha."

"Chief Stilp told me," the Mayor continued, "that Peter Clark called on him and asked Stilp if he would not arrange to dispose of that traffic ticket, and Stilp told him that was not the prac-

Explosion Hits Business Area In Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—To a terrified waitress it was just a loud sucking noise. To a fire captain it was a ball of fire followed by a deafening boom.

Many thought it was an air attack; some thought it was a direct bomb hit.

These were among first impressions of the unexplained explosion that demolished a business block in North Spokane Saturday night with a loss that may run $1 million or more. The thunderous noise was heard for 20 miles.

Houses trembled all over the city. Windows were broken and plaster cracked for blocks around. Display windows miles away were shattered.

At least 31 persons required hospital treatment for injuries, but no one was in serious condition 24 hours after the blast.

Terrorist Attacks, Crippling 24-Hour Walkout Follow Signing of Cease-Fire Pact

ALGIERS (AP)—A cease-fire ending the savage 7½-year Algerian nationalist rebellion went into effect at noon today. But the third force in the ordeal of Algeria, the European Secret Army, struck back with crippling general strikes and terrorist attacks.

Vowing to keep Algeria French, the secret army's call for a 24-hour strike halted all but essential services in Algiers and brought business to a standstill in Oran, Algeria's second largest city. The underground army warned the real fighting was just beginning.

Terrorist attacks erupted in Algiers despite reinforcements of French soldiers sent into the city. Gunfire and explosions rang through Oran, where AP correspondent Rodney Angove said no French troops were seen in the center of the city. Authorities gave no casualty figures.

Oran, a right-wing stronghold, had all communications cut with France by secret army saboteurs, Angove reported. He said all stores were closed as Europeans rallied to the secret army's strike call.

Flights Cancelled

Air France and Air Algerie canceled all flights from France to Algeria because airport personnel in Algiers and Oran joined the general strike.

Fugitive ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, head of the secret army, ordered his European followers on a war footing Sunday even as President Charles de Gaulle was announcing the cease-fire agreement and urging Frenchmen and Moslem alike to forget their differences.

The secret army has called the cease-fire agreement betrayal, and its announced campaign to challenge De Gaulle's authority brought uneasiness among Algerian nationalists who signed the agreement with France at Evian.

No Peace

"The cease-fire has not brought peace to Algeria," declared Algerian nationalist Premier Ben Youssef ben Khedda, whose group will share with France the main burden of ruling turbulent Algeria until a self-determination vote this summer charts the territory's future.

"There still are enemies of peace there," he said in Rome en route from Tunisia to Morocco. He referred to "groups whose interest it is to sabotage the peace."

Throughout Algeria, the Moslem majority was under orders from its leaders to refrain from demonstrations or contacts with Europeans that might lead to disorders.

Control Disorders

In an order of the day, Gen. Charles Ailleret, French supreme commander in Algeria, told the French army "to continue to make sure that disorder does not prevail, whoever are those who would attempt to unleash it again."

He also paid tribute to the Algerian nationalists who fought

New Yankee Invader Mexican Tacos Fighting U.S. Hot Dog Challenge

BY JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Another Yankee invader is making headlines in Mexico—the hot dog.

Some newspapers say it's a fight to the death between the hot dog and Mexico's famed tacos.

Chances are the tacos, along with tortas and tostados, will win out in the long run in any popularity contest. They're not only good, but cheaper.

Unsanitary Stands

The problem is, the stands which sell them are generally unsanitary, and the Ministry of Health is clamping down on them, particularly in the capital.

Zone by zone, the stands are being checked by hygiene and scores are being closed down.

Eventually, restaurants in all areas also will be investigated and forced to live up to sanitary rules.

Mashed Frijoles

A torta is a zeppelin-shaped roll packed with mashed frijoles, your choice of shredded chicken, pork, beef or red sausage, avocado, white cheese, lettuce, tomato, onion, any one of a variety of sauces. A meal in itself, it sells for about 10 cents.

Tacos are tortillas packed with any one of a dozen ingredients, folded and eaten in a hurry before the juices roll down your shirt.

Tostados are generous-sized toasted tortillas filled with about the same ingredients as a torta, and even cheaper.

Dirty Hands

Often these goods are tossed together by a cook who probably hasn't washed his hands since day before yesterday.

The average tourist has shunned them all, fearing they may turn up as turista-stomach upset.

Now officials have decided the unsanitary ones aren't good for Mexicans, either.

The puestos, or stands which sell by far the largest percentage of tacos, tortas and tostados, are facing a cleanup which will give the hot dog an edge.

But in the long run—after stands and their cooks are cleaned up—the hot dog and its buddy the hamburger, another popular invader, will fight a losing battle to the tacos and tortas.

Dillon Voices Opposition to Tax Reduction

Claims Our Allies Are Bearing Even Heavier Burdens

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said today the United States cannot afford "a truly significant reduction in the total amount of our tax bill" in the immediate future.

Dillon argued that the tax burden which inspires many complaints really isn't as burdensome as many claim; that five of the country's faster-growing allies bear even heavier burdens.

In a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the Tax Executives Institute, Dillon said that although tax rates can be cut, total tax payments cannot be reduced.

Reform Proposal

Discussing the broad tax reform proposal which President Kennedy will send the Congress later this year, with a view to enactment in 1963, Dillon said: "Our aim is to reduce tax rates for all by eliminating the special tax privileges of some—at the same time maintaining the revenues needed to fulfill our national commitments."

The administration wants to lower basic tax rates, perhaps by as much as one-fourth, by closing loopholes and repealing special benefits which apply only to a minority of taxpayers.

Dillon said that those who urge instead massive cuts in rates without provision for offsetting revenue gains, "are simply refusing to recognize that such a course would leave us no alternative but withdrawal from our world commitments and neglect of our pressing needs at home."

The announcement said the princess would make the film toward the end of next summer and she would be back in Monaco by late November.

Mrs. Kennedy rode about 50 yards in the courtyard of the old fortress of Amer atop a 500-foot rocky hill just outside this Rajast- han desert city. She passed up the usual tourist ride up the hair- pin road from the bottom of the hill to the fort.

Sharing the ornately decorated howdah with her was her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, an Indian official and the Indian mahout.

After spending the night as the guest of the governor of Rajast- han, Gurmukh Nihal Singh, Mrs. Kennedy was the guest today of the polo-playing Maharaja of Jaipur and his beautiful wife, who has just been elected to the Indian Parliament.

Labor Expert Wants Special 'Work' Tax

Plan Would Provide For Distribution to Entire Labor Force

Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — Union lawyers and economists are writing a bill for a national tax on employers that would give full paychecks to em- ployees working short weeks, a labor leader said here today.

Nat Weinberg, director, AFL- CIO United Auto Workers' spe- cial projects and economic analy- sis department, said their plan is to have the bill introduced at the present congressional session.

Weinberg met here this week- end with union officials and law- yers. He said the tax on em- ployers, as proposed under the bill, would be "permanent but very small."

Add to Plan
He added that the plan, which centers on a flexible work week ceared to the rate of unemploy- ment, is a "bridge-the-gap" plan for workers' earnings.

That is, when they work a short week, the difference be- tween what they would have earned for 40 hours and what they received for fewer hours would come out of the fund cre- ated by the national tax on em- ployers.

Under the flexible work week plan, a shorter week would go into effect when a certain per- centage of the nation's work force is unemployed. The employed would get a full paycheck, thus keeping up purchasing power.

Would Hire
The unemployed would be hired to make up the production lost by the shorter work week of the regularly employed, under the plan.

Weinberg said the economists working on the plan believe that the periods when money would be withdrawn from the tax fund would be "infrequent and of short duration."

He emphasized that employ- ers' payments into the fund would be off-set by smaller unemploy- ment compensation and income and other federal taxes.

State Congressmen Act to Halt Cut in Milk Supports

WASHINGTON AP — Wiscon- sin members of Congress Are anxiously awaiting a decision by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman on the level of dairy price supports for the marketing year starting April 1.

Milk used in manufacturing dairy products is now supported at 34¢ a hundred pounds, or about 83 per cent of parity. Us- ing the same parity equivalent, a drop to 75 per cent of parity would result in a support price of about 1.11.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., said he believes that Freeman will set the support level for the year declined. The Commodity Credit Corporation has been buy- ing large amounts of butter, 3.22. He contends the secretary has this authority.

Sen William Proxmire, D-Wis., said "I think the secretary can and should set the supports above 75 per cent of parity and I hope he will."

Rep. Lester R. Johnson, D-Wis. however, voiced belief that "the way the law is now written, Sec- retary Freeman will have to drop the support level to 53.11."

Ben Bella, Right, Deputy Premier of Provisional Algerian Government, and four associates captured with him by French in 1956 were set free on Swiss soil Sunday night after nearly six years imprisonment. West Joins in Praise as Chance For End of Long War Predicted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Algerian cease - fire today brought praise in the West, jubil- ance in the Arab world, relief among the neutrals—and a rush by the Communists to the leaders of the new Algeria.

The joy over the armistice in the bloody North African rebellion was tempered by refusal of the underground European secret army in Algeria to respect the peace accord. The terrorist or- ganization promised to do all it could to sabotage the accord.

President Kennedy sounded the theme of the Western bloc by de- claring, "The United States sup- ports these efforts towards a mutually beneficial solution and welcomes the agreement."

Sent Telegram
Premier Khrushchev fired off a telegram to Premier Ben Yous- sef ben Khedda of the Algerian government in exile in Tunis to declare the Soviet Union's readi- ness to establish diplomatic rela- tions with it.

Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, in Geneva for the disarmament conference, summed up the general neutralist reaction.

"We hope this is the beginning of real peace in Africa and will lead to an extension of nationalist freedom everywhere. It shows that any sort of problem can be solved if there is a will on all sides to solve it," Menon said.

Jordan's Foreign Minister Hazem Muzzeibah declared, "This is a moment of great re- joicing for every Arab."

United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser, at bitter odds with the French since the Suez invasion, said the Algerian cease-fire raises the possibility of a rapprochement between France and the Arabs.

A spokesman for West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said he was gratified by the cease-fire and hoped "a new, quiet and peaceful development based on self-determination will now begin."

Most leaders were cautious about claiming a victory for either the Algerian rebels or France in the 7½-year rebellion. The Indians love it. To

'Freedom of the Press' Is An Empty Phrase in Cuba

'Correspondents Write Exactly What They're Allowed to Write'

BY ROY SHIELDS
Toronto Star Correspondent
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

HAVANA — Freedom of the press in Cuba means freedom to write exactly what you're allowed to write.

Anybody who has trouble understanding this bit of Communist a capitalistic to a communistic economy.

My meeting with Bruguera followed lengthy red-tape sessions at the Foreign Affairs Department. During one of these I was introduced to a young Cuban expert in the Canadian department.

"How do you do, Mr. Shields," he said. "I have just been reading your stories on the hotel strike in Toronto."

When he had gone I asked Raul Lazo, a second lieutenant in Press and Information, if such a close check was made on all newsmen in Cuba.

"Si, señor," said Raul, who is a smiling, 20-year-old, cigar-chewing Marxist-Leninist. "We have files on everybody." He then proceeded to prove his point by going through the folders containing voluminous reports on various newsmen I inquired about.

Constant Watch

Constant watch is kept on visiting correspondents by the G-2, or secret police, and Toronto Star artist Duncan MacPherson and I had the only two rooms on the 15th floor of the Riviera Hotel with a lot of electrical wiring in the radio cabinets, but no radios. In all the other rooms, we could hear music blaring.

And in both hotels in which we stayed, the telephone operators proved exceptionally co-operative. We always got the same girls whenever we placed a call.

Understandably I did not try to transmit any of these articles until I had left Cuba.

Despite all the restrictions, more genuine news comes out of Cuba from the few Western sources than from the monolithic Communist press.

This consists, principally, of the two Communist-party news papers, "Revolucion" and "Hoy."

Radio and TV

In addition to the Communist news services which supply Cuban readers with the "truth," there are the Communist-run radio, television and movie industries.

Nobody knows for certain who controls this intricate propaganda machinery — that includes wide use of posters — but the most likely candidate is seldom-seen Fabio Grobart, editor of the monthly magazine Cuba Socialista.

Grobart is an East European Communist who fled Cuba several years ago to reappear last year from Russia. Since then he has become a powerful, though always shadowy, figure in the revolutionary government.

At any rate, the daily hokum his propaganda organ grinds out must pain intelligent Cubans.

Many Students Apply For Several Colleges

NEW YORK (AP)—To Dr. Fred E. Crossland, the so-called admission crisis in the nation's colleges and universities is a myth explainable through a simple equation: four college applicants equal one college freshman.

The typical college applicant, Crossland says, files three or four applications to different institutions. More than 50 per cent of all applicants send their applications to fewer than 10 per cent of the colleges and universities.

When the immense paper shuffling and grade weighing subsides, however, the four college applicants become only one college freshman.

"We might call it a statistical phenomenon," says Crossland, who is director of admissions at New York University—a private institution with 43,000 students in 15 various divisions.

Crossland said in an interview that only 25 to 30 of the nation's remember the one they attended and think they know what's best. The neighbor has his recommendation. The counselor often is the last one listened to."

An increasing number of transfers reflect the growing number of "bad first choices," Crossland said. "At NYU, for example, we get four transfers along with every five freshmen we take in." While Crossland maintains there's no admissions crisis now, he said one may well develop within the next three or four years as a result of the high birth rate since World War II.

Reaction to Free Trade

Since President Kennedy announced his plan to significantly lower tariffs and some quota agreements, particularly with the European Economic Community, there have been repercussions. Some industries, such as textiles, plywood and newsprint, have violently objected because they already have been hard hit by cheaper imports from abroad. But in general, American industry is in favor of the changes. This represents, we think, not only the realization that there are lucrative markets for American products in other countries which may be wooed and won by lowering our own barriers. It is a sign of the growing maturity of Americans and American businessmen in particular. It reflects a confidence in our economy and our products that is typically American. It negates the arguments that insist that capitalism is decadent and dying.

Obviously trade around the world cannot be free overnight. There must be considerable care that national industries with heavy competition from other nations are not hit too hard. This is partly because of the economic harm done to one segment of the population. It is partly because some of our industries must remain strong for defense purposes no matter how poorly they compete with foreign products.

But the general attitude of industry has been favorable to the proposed policy changes. In this part of the nation, for instance, the pulp and paper industries, formerly in favor of protective tariffs, have seen the opportunities for wider markets. Rubber industry spokesmen have commented that "on most of our products, including tires, our industry has fought its way in a free-wheeling competitive market all our lives and we feel we must take our chances with anybody anywhere."

There is concern among some industries because the competition involves the lower living and wage standards of other countries. Proponents of free trade argue that in the long run it is the turnover of the dollar, the flow of trade and the increase in labor that really affects the economy. However, when one particular industry is affected, the change must be a slow one to permit switches in employment. Fortunately the Common Market countries, our major trade area, have living standards and wages not too much lower than our own.

In 1961 we exported about $5 billion worth of goods more than we imported. But due to our foreign aid and the expenses of our military establishments in other nations, the traditional favorable balance of trade was slight. By increasing the over-all trade—the flow of goods and money both to and from this nation—in theory the percentage of exports to imports should increase to help take care of the aid differential.

This nation was built strong and free through initiative, industry, ingenious invention and free enterprise both of individuals and industry. We cannot withdraw to our shores any longer through fear, not merely of Communism, but of competition. The reaction to the President's program has been heartening. It gives a sound picture of the national self-esteem, confidence and vision which we like to think exists in most American citizens.

Teen-Age Beer Spots

After extensive debate during the recent legislative session, the subject of teen-age drinking and driving was put aside with instructions to the legislative council to make a broad study and bring in a recommendation at the next session.

To carry out this instruction the legislative council asked the Beverage and Cigarette Tax Division of the Wisconsin Tax Department to make a survey of a number of teen-age beer taverns.

As might have been expected, the survey shows that teen-agers daily, or rather nightly, drive many miles across county lines to reach some popular beer taverns and return over the same course, often after imbibing freely. In one Ozaukee County tavern, 275 of 375 persons reached in the survey were from Milwaukee County. In a Washington County teen-age tavern, 57 visitors were from Milwaukee County and 51 from Waukesha County out of a total of 151 persons interviewed. In another Washington County tavern, 66 out of 96 teen-age customers were from Milwaukee or Waukesha County. In a Marinette County tavern, about half of the customers were from Michigan and half from Marinette County. Similar figures on the proportion of out of county patrons were reported in surveys of teen-age taverns in Winnebago and Chippewa Counties.

Gordon M. Corry, chief of enforcement of the Beverage Tax Division, said that the tavern survey might not be truly representative because the taverns visited had adopted "rigorous methods of control which were needed because problems had arisen before." But even in these presumably well-regulated taverns the identification cards shown by the youths often were badly frayed and some in such condition that another picture might readily be inserted. Many of them did not comply with the form set up by law.

It is quite clear from the survey, which obviously was limited to a few of the better teen-age taverns, that the regulations are being followed somewhat sketchily and the very important identification cards are not what the law intends. Certainly it is a fact that teen-agers are driving many miles to reach teen-age tavern spots and many of them endanger others on their return trips. Judging from the proposals which have been offered to correct the situation, it must be quite clear that the people of Wisconsin are becoming daily more concerned with the thought that there is a serious problem here and that the legislature has not solved it.

Back to Brazil

Last fall Dr. Janio Quadros, then President of Brazil, abruptly resigned and sobbed as he went into self-imposed exile. At the time there were some reports that Dr. Quadros didn't really think his party or the people would let him resign and that his tears were as much for the loss of his presidency as a farewell to his country. He had threatened to step down from the nomination for presidency once before and the threat won him the demands he had made on the party.

And now Dr. Quadros has come back. Apparently he is willing to let bygones be bygones and start all over again. Even more important, he is going to start work for liberal candidates for the congress which stymied many of his proposals as president.

Brazil is not a unified country. After Quadros' resignation, his left wing vice president, Joao Goulart, had some trouble succeeding to the presidency. On a world tour, which included Russia and Red China, at the time of Quadros' departure, Goulart took some time to come home because his welcome was doubtful. The military, spurred on by other conservatives, had declared it would never let him take office. But a compromise was worked out which took away much of the power of the presidency and Goulart was sworn in.

Dr. Quadros is an emotional man among an emotional people. He was welcomed upon his not-so-secret return by cheering crowds. There is almost a certainty that he will be heard from in the next few months.

Next October Brazilians again go to the polls to elect representatives to their congress. Although Quadros was elected by a landslide vote just a few weeks before President Kennedy's triumph in the United States, he did not have the support of his congress. This time, presumably, he will try to assure legislative support just in case he takes office again.

er; they steal the revolutions other people make. Castro the "romantic" spellbinder was a convenient front for them, but the process of taking away his power begins; and Castro himself has seen to it that most of his real friends are no longer available to help him resist. He may hang on for years as a pathetic puppet, but the Communist realists are taking over from the romantics who were playing at being Communists.

Marxist Notions

This news comes just as the Castro regime has suffered other setbacks. The Council of the Organization of American States has formally expelled — not Cuba as such, but the present regime in Cuba. Meanwhile the United Nations has overwhelmingly defeated Cuban and Communist-bloc attempts to castigate the United States for its anti-Castro policies.

The Communist "realists" will now try to improve Cuba economically and repair some of the damage done by the happy-go-lucky economic recklessness of Castro and Guevara. But their own realism is so circumscribed by dogmatic Marxist notions, and they are so subject to had policies imposed from Moscow in the interests of Soviet foreign policy, that it remains to be seen whether they can do better.

The future for Castro is not bright. Neither is the future for Cuba. We hope the people of Latin America are watching and drawing the appropriate conclusions.

Suggests Farmers Raise No. 1 Hogs Instead of Milking Cows

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In regard to the article you had in your March 2 issue of your paper, "Farmers Views Mixed in Proposed Dairy Program". No one seems to know what the cause of the surplus and confusion really is or have any remedy for it.

As I see it here in Wisconsin we have an unbalanced production of agriculture products, due largely to a lack of proper marketing programs. For years we have had rigid laws, regulations and orders concerning the production and marketing of milk and by so doing have created a demand and steady market for our dairy products. This demand has led to expansion of our dairy industry and the late price supports of milk has added to this already over expansion.

While this expansion of dairy products has been going on in our dairy industry, the expansion of some of our principal products has been sadly neglected, to the extent that we see our great Wisconsin beer industry buying the melting barley in other states. The same can be said for rye. Our once great potato industry has slipped to the extent that thousands of bushel of out of state potatoes are being consumed in Wisconsin. Just lately we see the Quality Packing House at New London, right here in our own county buying hogs in Chicago to meet the demand of our Fox Valley consumers. While all the above mentioned products can be produced as well and as cheaply in Wisconsin as anywhere else.

Just for comparison, 60 years ago, a Wisconsin farmer could milk his cows, strain out the corn stalks and straw through a flour sack, put the can in a tub of cold water in the corner of the barn and leave there until it was picked up for market. Not so today. His cows must be TB and Bangs tested. The milk must be strained through a filter pad into a sterilized can and immediately placed in an inspected milk house and kept under refrigeration until picked up for market. Then at the market it must pass the sediment and blue test before accepted. How about some of our other principal products. Low grade potatoes, bin burned and musty barley and rye, overly fat hogs all can be dumped on the market for what ever they will bring.

We have known for 50 years that a No. 1 hog was worth at least $5 more on the market than a No. 2 or 3 animal of the same weight, and that mil-

Likes Way Our City Is Being Run

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I read the article in the Appleton Post-Crescent, Feb. 28th, about many trees in our city being cut down. It happens to be that I live on Wisconsin Ave., and I know how very important it was for our street to be widened, because every time we would drive in or out of our driveway we were in danger of our lives.

We loved the trees also, but we realized that Wisconsin Ave. could not have been widened without them being cut down. I am satisfied the way our city is being run. I also do believe if we're all more grateful for what we have, and have enough faith in our Lord we would have less crime and cruelty in our country.

Nelson Established In Political History

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Whatever the voters of Wisconsin may decide about Gaylord Nelson's future as a politician, they already have given him a lasting place in the history of the politics of this state.

No other governor wearing the label of the Democratic party has been elected twice to the state's top office in this century, and in fact, only A. G. Schmedeman in 1933 managed to capture the office for the Democrats during that period. In the whole history of the state only one other Democrat, George W. Peck in the 1890's, managed to carry the Democratic banner to victory in the statehouse in two successive elections. Peck's triumph, moreover, was related to exceptional political circumstances of his times that were totally different than the situation that prevailed in Nelson's period and thus on balance the Nelson achievement is probably more impressive.

RELUCTANCE

Normally men holding high office give up the perquisites and honors reluctantly. Nelson's voluntary retirement is fairly unusual in the history of Wisconsin public affairs. Perhaps it is not correct to say that he is retiring voluntarily, for it is fairly evident that he prefers to take his chances on a candidacy for U.S. senator to another shot at the state executive office.

Two terms in the political habits of Wisconsin has become standard for the successful or moderately successful governor. A few outstanding men, sometimes aided by fortunate timing and national events, have had three terms. But some of them have had only one term, then discovering that the voters have had enough of their programs and philosophies. Thus Nelson has a right to assume, in the private assessment of his own experience, that his reelection two years ago was a vindication of his first term performance, however thin the margin of victory over the always aggressive Republicans in this basically Republican state.

The planned progression of Nelson's career to the senatorship is one that has ample precedent in the history of Wisconsin political parties.

In this century—it is scarcely relevant to compare his situation with the careers of 19th century predecessors — Robert M. LaFollette Sr. and John J. Blaine left the governorship to enter the U. S. senate. Among others of Nelson's predecessors, Walter J. Kohler Jr. and Francis E. McGovern tried to win senate seats. The experience of Vernon W. Thomson, the man Nelson defeated in 1958 to win the governorship, is perhaps also comparable. He ran for congressman successfully in 1960.

OTHERS

Others of the gubernatorial predecessors had notions about post-gubernatorial careers. The late Julius P. Heil dreamed about a senate seat, but the dream was snuffed out when he lost the governorship.

The late Orland S. Loomis had a private blueprint when he was elected governor in 1942, only to die before he could be sworn in. Walter S. Goodland, the octogenarian, never had any illusions about his future when he became governor through succession, but former Gov. Oscar Rennebohm used to smile encouragingly when he was suggested as a possible appointee for senator in 1957, when it seemed that the legislature might consider changing the law to permit the governor to name a man to a vacancy.

The election time-table is all important in these considerations. If Nelson sought another term as governor this year, he would not have another term as governor this year, he would not have another chance to run for senator until 1964 and then he would have the unwelcome task of trying to best the formidable William Proxmire in a Democratic primary.

It is not likely that the governor will be regarded as the favorite in the bout with Republican Sen. Wiley this year, but his chances there are likely to appear more promising than in an inter-party contest with Proxmire.

St. Patrick's Day Celebration, 1862

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 22, 1962.

Monday last was Ireland's national holiday. Erin's anniversary of her Patron Saint. The day opened bright and fair and all things seemed to render the occasion a happy one.

From the hour of 9 a.m. until 11 a.m., the different delegations from various towns in the County were arriving continually. Almost every team was decorated with evergreens and flags — both the Stars and Stripes and the flag of Ireland. High Mass was duly celebrated with the solemn strains of the organ, the chanting of the singers and the mingled tones of the many worshippers making a deep and lasting impression. At the conclusion of the Mass, the Rev. Dael, pastor of St. Mary's Church, gave a very able and impartial sermon. He urged the sons of Erin to stand shoulder to shoulder in the defense of their adopted country.

The procession made a very good display. It proceeded to Adkins Hall where there was a feast of the substantial. After the crowd was seated, the President of the Day, Mr. Driscoll, a promising young student of Lawrence University, gave a condensed history of Ireland during the past 700 years. Father Dael then made a few happy remarks. Thomas Powers of Greenville sang a song in Celtic, after which dinner was announced. The tables were arranged tastily and loaded richly with good things to eat.

During the speeches and dinner, E. L. R. Cuthbert, that prince of musicians, executed some fine pieces on the melodeon and the Misses Cummins, the Fox River Valley Nightingales, favored the audience with soul-stirring songs.

In the evening, the cotillion party was held in the hall, when a large company "tripped the light fantastic toe" until the "wee sma' hours." All in all, everything passed off agreeably to those participating, and the 17th of March, 1862, will ever occupy a green spot in the memory of those who joined in the festivities at Appleton.

What Others are Saying

'Counter - Revolution' Starting Inside Cuba

From The Wilmington (Del.) News

Was the Castro revolution in Cuba, or the 26th of July movement which brought it about, a Communist affair? The evidence so far available indicates that the answer is negative. Cuban Communists were not helping the movement; some of them were ministers in the government of Batista, whom Castro sought to overthrow. But now, ironically, one of those former Communist ministers under Batista, one Carlos Rodriguez, has bumped Fidel Castro from his post as head of the important Cuban Agrarian Reform Institute.

The hard - faced, hard-core

Communists refer to Castro and his flamboyant bearded bully boys as "romantics." Though Castro and "Che" Guevara both consider themselves Communist and serve the cause of communism, the hard core don't consider them "real" Communists. Now that most of the members of the 26th of July movement have been executed, imprisoned, or driven into exile by Castro himself, the Communists find it safe to start curtailing Castro's power.

Steal Revolutions

And so the counter-revolution begins. Communists are revolutionists only in the sense that a robber hawk is a fish catch-

Columnist Claims
Inefficiency in Government Today

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—It is reported that somebody among the White House aides thought up a good title for a special message to Congress—"protecting the consumer interest"—and then they all sat around trying to decide what to put into it.

The net result was a hodge-podge of recommendations, but the message was really significant, not for what it contained, but for what it omitted. The President said in one of the opening paragraphs:

"Fortunate as we are, we nevertheless cannot afford waste in consumption any more than we can afford inefficiency in business or government."

But nowhere in the essay was there anything said in explanation of the "inefficiency in government." The message used up nine long pages of single-spaced typewriting and dealt with everything from alleged misrepresentations in advertising of foods and drugs to the kind of lipstick or hair dye that women are misled into buying.

It would seem that somehow consideration now should be given to "a message from the victims of government inefficiency."

For in the many thousands of words in the President's latest message about protecting the consumer, there wasn't a single sentence telling of the damage being done to the consumer by the government itself. There was no reference to the constant diminution of the wages of the citizens through taxes and the attrition of the purchasing power of the dollar as a result of unsound fiscal policies pursued by the administration in Washington, especially as they relate to wasteful expenditures here and abroad.

Used Words
The President complains that "highly developed arts of persuasion" are being used in America to sell goods to the consumer. He rightly argues that the consumer should be protected against "fraudulent, deceitful or grossly misleading information, advertising, labeling or other practices." But why hasn't the government itself been efficient in this field?

Mr. Kennedy gives the impression that all these abuses have just begun to happen and that nothing has been done about them heretofore. He doesn't mention that the Pure Food and Drug Act has been on the statute books for decades and that the Federal Trade Commission over the past half-century has been charged by Congress with specific responsibility for taking action on these misrepresentations.

How much of the taxpayers' money has already gone in the regulatory agencies of the government, and is the President blaming everything now on the absence of laws to deal with these abuses?

As for accidents on the highways, has nothing ever been done by auto manufacturers to try to assure safety for auto drivers, or by those states and cities that issue licenses to drivers and conduct periodic inspections of cars? Yet the President seems to think that "changes in automobile design and equipment" can reduce the casualties—as if the auto manufacturers themselves have not been spending millions of dollars each year in research on this very subject.

The President wants "simple common names" for drugs "in order to avoid confusion and to enable the purchaser to buy the quality drugs he actually needs at the lowest competitive price." But "common names" are all too few and are quickly used up.

If something is labeled "a cure for a cold," it may be even more confusing if the label doesn't tell what is distinctive about the medicine, or if some name is used that is so vague that the individual can't remember how to describe it when he tells his fellow sufferers about it. Mr. Kennedy admits that 80 per cent of the drugs do what they claim to do, which means that 20 per cent are subject to criticism. But hasn't this been the case for years, and hasn't the food and drug administration been improving that situation constantly by hard work and efficient investigation?

Without Fault?
As for "misleading" salesmanship, is the government itself without fault? Why doesn't the President busy himself with the post office department's collection of money under what might be called "misleading" circumstances? It charges 30 cents for a special-delivery stamp, but there are hundreds of towns in the United States where the post offices are closed over the week-ends and hence no special-delivery service is provided.

The public doesn't know which towns these happen to be, so a great deal of money is paid out under an illusion. This is a form of waste imposed on the consumer by the government itself. As to lack of efficiency in an important operation in one of the government's biggest business enterprises, airmail delivery is a case in point. Many an airmail letter posted during the week—even when there is no adverse weather—takes 24 hours or more for delivery, although the plane carrying it makes the trip in a few hours. Some of the trains between the same points actually arrive hours before the airmail letter does.

Also, there are literally hundreds of cases in which other government departments and agencies cause considerable expense to the citizens and to various businesses and for which today there is no redress or compensation.

And what about the misleading statements of politicians? Would not it be "protecting the consumer interest"—or at least the "voter interest"—if all political salesmanship, including messages by the President to Congress and speeches in both houses, were subjected every day to the same strict

Adult Acne Cases May Be Caused by Allergy

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a woman 30 years old and from the age of 16 I have suffered with cystic acne. Besides blackheads, oily skin, enlarged pores and pimples, I had cysts on my face, back and neck.

An excellent dermatologist tried everything known. In addition to the usual treatments—diet, sulfated medicated soaps, etc.—he experimented with antibiotic shots, hormones, the "tar-cream" treatment and others. Nothing worked.

One day a girl friend mentioned to me when he was a baby and the pediatrician prescribed a diet free of eggs, butter, butterfat and the like. I didn't have eczema, but I did have a skin condition. I stopped eating eggs and switched to non-fat milk. Unfortunately it is almost impossible to stop eating all foods with eggs, milk and butterfat, but I do my best.

Once in a while in an unavoidable situation I eat an egg or two. A few days later a cyst appears. Otherwise my skin remains clear.

and for the first time in years I can wear a low-backed dress and a minimum of make-up. I know how thrilled I am with these results and know others can be helped. Please print this along with your comments — B. A. B.

Gladly. It's an instructive letter — but I want readers to get the right lesson from it. The lesson is not that eggs and-or butterfat often cause acne.

Acne is primarily a skin problem of adolescents, due to excessive secretion of skin oils at that age. It usually subsides with time, aided by proper skin hygiene.

When acne persists past adolescence, allergy, rather than the more ordinary, transient causes must be considered. That's the real significance of today's letter.

Eggs and milk products are rather common culprits, relatively speaking, in touching off allergies. They are also foods that are difficult to avoid and because of this their allergenic effects are not always suspected as readily as would be less common foods.

Chocolate and sea foods also can touch off acne. Foods and vitamin mixtures containing iodine may also be at fault. This is another of several reasons why I keep reminding readers that I do not favor a "daily iodine ration." Indeed, some people must even avoid using iodized salt. And there are numerous other nation's growing armada of missiles.

Two members of the Senate Armed Services Committee — Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash. — agreed Sunday there was no way Congress could force the administration to build more B70s than it wanted to.

No Endorsement

Goldwater did not directly endorse the proposed $491-million appropriation, but he said he would favor it if it was needed to get the plane in the air this year. Jackson said he did not favor full-scale production before the Senate committee could examine the issues. They appeared on a television interview — ABC — "the issues and answers".

Later in the week, the House plans to take up a major tax revision bill providing business tax concessions designed to spur plant modernization and tightening of loopholes.

In reports over the weekend, Republican and Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, which drafted the bill for the House, disagreed over what effect it would have on next year's budget.

The Republicans contended the bill points straight to a $2.5 billion deficit next year.

Democrats conceded the bill involved a large net loss of revenue next year — estimates ranged upward from $600 million — but they said the Treasury believed the stimulation given the national economy by the tax changes would bring about a virtual balance in future years.

The Eisenhowers are spending the winter in a rented $175,000 home on the grounds of Eldorado Country Club.

Nelson Blasts Engineers for Project Delays

MADISON (AP)—Gov. Gaylord Nelson accused the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers today of "bureaucratic ineptness" in handling a flood control survey of the Kickapoo River.

The governor made his allegation public in a message he sent to the Board of Engineers for River and Harbors, Washington, D.C. Nelson also sent a copy to President Kennedy.

The governor noted that the corps began a study of control measures for the Kickapoo in 1956. Since 1959, he noted, requests from his office for progress reports were ignored until Feb. 19, 1962.

The corps then submitted a 305-page report proposing a $15 million investment of tax dollars with a request that the governor study the report and submit Wisconsin views by March 14.

"This gave me and every state agency involved in the project less than four weeks to examine and submit our findings on a study that the corps of engineers has been working on for some 6 years," Nelson complained.

Red Guerrillas Escape Trap in South Viet Nam

No figures on government casualties were immediately announced. "We may have telegraphed our punch," a U.S. adviser said.

The operation, the first helicopter-supported operation against Communist guerrillas in the mountains of central Viet Nam, was launched at dawn Saturday after 24-hour delay due to bad weather.

Reds Tipped Off

Reconnaissance flights and a diversionary overland attack Thursday may have tipped off the Communists to what was coming.

The Communists have managed to escape practically every trap set for them since the helicopter-supported operations were launched as part of the major U.S. military buildup in South Viet Nam since the start of the year.

The Binh Soahn Valley, 60 miles south of this garrison town near the Communist border, is now in government hands.

"But the hills are probably full of Communists," an American officer said.

If the Viet Cong rebels follow their usual pattern they will ease the winter in a rented $175,000 back into the valley after government forces are redeployed for duty in other areas.

Tense Nerves Block Bowels

New tonic-tablet laxative acts on colonic muscles... de-constipates overnight.

The muscular wall of your colon contains nerves known to medicine as Auerbach's Plexus. In regular people, these nerves tell the colon muscles to propel and expel waste from the body. But tense nerves or emotional upset can block your normal bowel habits. Your colon muscle impulses are no longer strong enough to eliminate waste—which dries and shrinks, further aggravating the condition.

Relief, doctors say, lies in the non-irritating, de-constipating principle of a new tonic-tablet called COLONAX.

Of all leading laxatives, only COLONAX today. INTRODUCTORY SIZE 42¢.

A French army spokesman said there had been no firing between the nationalist rebels and the army anywhere in the field for several hours before the cease-fire order went into effect.

"Real Fighting"

More bloodshed threatened before Algeria gains independence as the underground army of European settlers defiantly proclaimed: "Now the real fighting has begun."

Jean Morin, French delegate general, appealed to both Europeans and Moslems to remain calm. He told the Europeans, "I know the solution (the cease-fire) is not the one you wanted but it is a solution of reality." He warned them against "a catastrophe of senseless resistance" and counseled the Moslem majority to show "patience and prudence in the weeks to come."

Algers was outwardly calm with few Europeans and fewer Moslems in the streets.

who had mapped the strategy of Sunday's election. Vitolo reportedly already had submitted his resignation, but government house sources said Frondizi had not decided whether to accept it.

Jubilant Peronists hailed the outcome as a recall for their exiled leader, but there was doubt the military, which threw Peron out in 1955, would permit his followers to regain control.

After the voting trend became clear, Frondizi's ruling Intransigent Radical party issued a warning that the Peronist victory could cause chaos in Argentina.

Peron was not present to taste the fruits of his victory. He was reported following the returns by telephone from exile in Madrid.

State of Siege

At midnight, the four-year-old state of siege, lifted for election day, went back into effect.

Early this morning squads of police using tear gas bombs roamed the streets dispersing crowds who massed in front of newspaper offices to see late returns posted in the windows.

The armed forces leaders were said to feel havoc would result if 10 or more Peronist governors take over May 1.

Russians Ready to Negotiate Test Treaty

Home returned to Geneva from weekend consultations in London with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Allied diplomats said they believed Macmillan had been in touch with Kennedy on nailing down the concessions. Macmillan is said to be even more anxious than Kennedy to show that if the U.S. tests are held every possible effort was made to avoid them.

Zorin said the Soviet Union would like to negotiate here with the United States, Britain and France on a nuclear test ban. The great powers would form a subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

French Boycott

Since France is boycotting the conference, Zorin said Russia was "also ready to continue negotiations" among the three powers.

At the news conference, Zorin also said the Soviet draft treaty for total disarmament by three stages in four years should be the basis for negotiations here, especially since he said the United States has not laid down a complete treaty proposal.

2 Rejected the proposal advanced by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk last week that Russia and the United States each transfer 50,000 kilograms of nuclear explosive material to a stockpile for peaceful uses. Zorin said that should be done only at a time when nuclear weapons came under a total ban.

Russian Walk Out

3 Declined to say whether Russia would walk out of the disarmament talks if and when Kennedy starts nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, assuming there is no test ban treaty meanwhile.

4 Declared that national inspection systems for detecting nuclear explosions are sufficient children. It will be operated by police a test ban treaty. This is the heart of the treaty dispute worth the United States insists international inspectors must be admitted to the Soviet Union.

In the 17-nation conference it- Mrs. Sargent Shriver Jr. and Mrs. self Canada made a new appeal Peter Lawford

Heavy Pressure

The United States obviously is coming under heavy pressure to avoid another nuclear test series at almost any cost. That is true not only inside the conference as shown by such statements as Green's but also far beyond Geneva.

Today Prime Minister Nehru of India appealed to the United States not to hold nuclear tests during the conference. If the United States goes ahead, Russia will start again and the negotiations in Geneva will lose all significance, Nehru said in New Delhi.

Rusk and his aides were reported to have told neutrals in week-end conference the United States is bent on resuming the atmosphere tests in April unless the Soviet Union changes its policy toward a test ban. They urged the neutrals to persuade the Russians to accept a treaty with controls to prevent cheating.

Kennedy Proposes Something for All

President Flooding Congress With Many Plans for Welfare

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a year but they will make a wonderful talking point for the rest of his tenure.

President Kennedy's flood of proposals to Congress this year and in appeal in all directions he can, the year is young.

He will probably feel lucky, even surprised, if Congress approves half of what he has asked. But he has asked so much, for so many different kinds of people, it can't fail to do him political good.

There's something for old people, city people, farm people, young people (children and students), Negroes, migrant workers, federal workers, untrained workers, the unemployed, doctors, dentists, communities, cities, states, business, industry, colleges, under one big tent, the whole works: consumers.

In his State of the Union message on Jan. 11, he outlined at least 41 proposals. He has expanded on them, and then some, in 15 follow-up messages to Congress so far.

They are too broad and too many to be totally achieved this year but they will make a wonderful talking point for the rest of his tenure.

Because they have such built-in appeal in all directions he can, win or lose on them, always point to what his administration got or tried to get.

They would be even more important now, unlike last year, if they stuck to the point of what his administration got or tried to get.

There are enough Democrats in states, business, industry, colleges and Senate to ram his proposals through, if they stuck to the point of what his administration got or tried to get.

So, unless this Congress puts over a majority of his requests, it will be embarrassing and unconvincing at election time when Kennedy asks voters to send even more Democrats to Congress.

Some of Kennedy's programs, by accident or design, are politically shrewd since they throw bones of special interest to groups or individuals who otherwise would have no hesitancy in opposing him.

Critics of the so-called welfare state and of centralized government may complain his programs would greatly widen the government's responsibility for the general welfare. Indeed, they would acceptance of this role of government has been a consistent and developing part of American history for almost 30 years under three former presidents.

Kennedy can remind his critics that Congress itself, in the Employment Act of 1946, belatedly but flatly said the government has responsibility for the general welfare.

So this long ago ceased to be a problem of principle. All that's left is the problem of degree.

Kennedy can argue he has asked what he thinks necessary—socially, economically, and militarily—to keep the nation afloat in the rip-tide of the modern world.

First Graders at Park School to Be Registered

KAUKAUNA — Registration for students planning to attend first grade classes for the 1962-63 school term at Park School will be held from 9 to 11:45 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday in the first grade room at the school.

First graders will not have classes on registration day. To be eligible for attendance, a child must have reached his sixth birthday by Oct. 1, 1962. Birth or baptismal certificates will be required of students who are not now enrolled in kindergarten at the school.

Parents of youngsters from outlying districts annexed to the city for school purposes during the last few months who may be in doubt as to what school their child will attend can call Clifford Hodgins, elementary school superintendent. Registration of first graders at Nicolet School is planned later this month.

St. John Opens Bid for NIT Crown Tuesday

Joins Bradley in Facing Pair of Quarter-Final Foes

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP)—With six stylish contenders still gunning for the National Invitation Basketball Tournament championship, the 25th edition of the annual classic remains a wide-open affair.

With three doubleheaders in the books and three to go, action resumes Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden when St. John's of New York and Bradley make their bows. Bradley (21-6) plays Duquesne (21-5) and St. John's (19-4) meets Holy Cross (20-5) in quarter-final games.

The two winners tangle in Thursday night's semifinals, which also pair Dayton (22-6) against Loyola of Chicago (22-3).

Eyes Fourth Title
St. John's makes its bid for a fourth NIT crown with a veteran club led by 6-10 Leroy Ellis. The Redmen face a hot-handed Holy Cross team that beat out Colorado State University 72-71 Saturday afternoon Jack (The Shot) Foley of the Crusaders hit on 34 points against the Aztecs.

All-America Chet Walker leads the Bradley Braves, co-champions with Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference. Duquesne advanced to the quarterfinals with a convincing but lackluster 70-58 decision over Navy Saturday.

Dayton and Loyola swept into semifinal berths with impressive victories Saturday night. The Flyers kept up their winning pace by humbling Houston 94-77 as sophomore Bill Chmielewski and Gordy Hatton sparked. Loyola made its debut with a racehorse runaway over Temple 73-64.

Thursday night's winners will meet for the championship Saturday afternoon.

Cincinnati easily disposed of Colorado for the Midwest title, winning 73-46 at Manhattan, Kan., with Paul Hogue once more in the van. He scored 22 points as the Bearcats won their 16th in a row.

The two supposed sacrificial lambs — Wake Forest and UCLA — were impressive. The Deacons, behind all-America Len Chappell, whipped Villanova 79-69 for the Eastern Regional title. UCLA's Bruins put the clamps on 7-foot Mel Counts and rolled over Oregon State 88-69 for the Far West title.

The smaller colleges' two main titles were wrapped up over the weekend, with Mount St. Mary's getting the NCAA College Division crown by beating Sacramento State 55-37 in overtime and Prairie View knocking off favored Westminster, Pa., 62-53 for NAIA honors.

St. Nicholas topped St. Gabriel, 25-20; Holy Cross edged St. Margaret Mary, 25-21; St. Pius whipped Sacred Heart, 43-22; and St. Patrick rolled past St. John, 43-21 in Saturday's action.

St. Joseph of Appleton had opened the meet Thursday with a 31-29 win over Menasha St. Mary St. Mary, of Appleton, walloped Menasha St. John, 33-14; and Kimberly Holy Name whipped St. Theresa, 33-18, Sunday.

The remaining two championship quarterfinal games will be played Wednesday evening. Games will continue through the week with the championship in both the consolation and championship brackets slated for 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Two Colorado Defenders, Ken Charlton and Eric Lee fail to stop Cincinnati's Paul Hogue from pushing up a shot in the NCAA Midwest regional championship game at Manhattan, Kan., Saturday night. Defending national champion Cincinnati won the game to advance to the NCAA finals at Louisville this weekend.

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The 74-64 to advance into the national finals at Louisville, Ky., where the Buckeyes will meet Wake Forest Friday night.

Havlicek also scored 15 points in the Ohio State triumph, but his performance was overshadowed by the spectacular play of teammate Jerry Lucas.

A three-time All-America, Lucas scored 25 points in the first half, added 8 more in the second half, nabbed 15 rebounds and set up numerous baskets with slick passes to fire the Buckeyes to their 25th victory against one loss.

The 6-8 senior's performance in the finals gained him the tournament's most valuable player award, and the only unanimous berth on the all-tournament team. Havlicek, who scored 30 points in the two games in addition to his sterling defensive play, joined So did Nash, a great rebounder Lucas on the all-tournament team. ## Snell Snaps His World Mark In Half Mile

3 Americans in Japanese Meet All Post Victories

TOKYO (AP) — Peter Snell, Australia's one mile record holder, has taken to breaking his own marks now that he is running out of other worlds to conquer.

The 23-year-old Snell blazed a 1:49.9 half mile Sunday in the Japan National Track and Field Championships to clip three-tenths of a second off his own five-week old indoor standard.

Snell, who also holds the world outdoor half-mile record, was clocked in 53 seconds flat for the first quarter.

When he won the mile in 4:06.7 Saturday, Snell complained that the Tokyo Metropolitan Gym was too smoky and too hot. So officials turned down the heat and put up "no smoking" signs to oblige him.

Hayes Jones of Pontiac, Mich., John Uelses of Quantico, Va., and Ralph Boston of Tennessee State, the three Americans competing in the meet, all won their events.

Minnie Anxious To Play Every Day For Cardinal Club

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Like Sugar Ray Robinson and Archie Moore,

Minnie Minoso claims the record books are mistaken about his correct age.

"I was born November, 1924 (not 1922)," said the newest St. Louis Cardinal today. "That makes me 37. Everybody call me 40 or 42. They wrong. When I first came from Cuba to play ball, they say I have put down older date to get passport because of Army. I say, 'Okay, put down what you want.'"

Snell, who also holds the world outdoor half-mile record, was clocked in 53 seconds flat for the first quarter.

Whatever the book says, Minoso claims he is younger than springtime.

"In my mind I feel I just started," he said. "Years make no difference. It is less what count in baseball. My legs still good."

"This game I love each day more. This game gave me lots of things I never expect to get. If they have to push me and say 'Minnie do this . . . Minnie do that' that different. But Minnie run all day. Nobody have tell him."

How much did Minoso think he had slowed down?

UCLA Turns Attention to Cincinnati '5'

Bruins Hold 7-Foot Oregon Starter to 6 Points in First Half

PROVO, Utah (AP) — UCLA

walloped Oregon State 88-69 Saturday night and all the Bruins had to worry about today was beating Cincinnati this Friday night in the semifinals of the National Collegiate Basketball Championships at Louisville, Ky.

But of course that's a tall order, beating Cincinnati, ranked No. 2 team in the nation by The Associated Press.

The Bruins will have to hold down Cincinnati's 6-foot-9 Paul Hogue. But they held Oregon State's 7-foot Mel Counts to six points in the first half of their victory Saturday night in the Far West NCAA Regional tournament.

Rebounding Strength
However, Counts got 18 points in the second half, but at least the Bruins showed they could put the clamps on a tall, high-scoring man for a while.

UCLA has rebounding strength in 6-5 Fred Slaughter and 6-4 Gary Cunningham. John Green has averaged 19.6 points a game and hit 23 against Oregon State.

Wait Hazard, 6-2, is the playmaker.

Coach John Wooden said, "Without Hazard, we just aren't a team. It's his ball handling and play making which keeps us going."

The Bruins started the season losing seven of their first 11 games but then won 12 of their last 14 and took the Big Five conference crown with a 10-2 record.

Warriors Can Earn Shot at Celtics Tonight

Will Held to 28 But Philadelphia Wins Second in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Philadelphia Warriors, hurrying toward a long-awaited crack at the champion Boston Celtics, can reach that point in the National Basketball Association playoffs tonight with a victory over Syracuse's worn-out Nats.

Upset by the Nats last season, the Warriors took a commanding 2-0 lead in the current best-of-5 series in the Eastern Division semifinal playoffs by using a three-pronged attack for an easy 97-82 victory at Syracuse Sunday.

At the same time, the Detroit Pistons, beaten 129-107 by Cincinnati Saturday, turned the tables on the Royals for a 118-107 victory, for a 2-1 edge in the best-of-5 Western series that will decide the opponent for Los Angeles' division champs.

Wilt Chamberlain's 50-point a game average suffered a jolt when he was held to 28 by the Nats, but Tom Meschery and Paul Arizin contributed 26 and 24 to the Warriors' offensive and that was enough Johnny Kerr topped the injury-riddled Nats with 18.

It was a battle at Detroit until the first minutes of the third quarter when a jumper by Don Ohl put the Pistons ahead 54-53 and Ray Scott followed with two quick baskets. That seemed to unsettle the Royals and they never were able to come closer than three points thereafter.

Four Pistons hit for 20 or more points with Bailey Howell getting 27, Gene Shue 25, Scott 22 and 26 rebounds, and Ohl 21. Oscar Robertson led the Royals with 26 points while Jack Twyman chipped in with 21.

Coaches Unit Cites Pair of Area Mentors

Harry Wilson of Kaukauna, 'Wega's Keith French Honored

MADISON — Harry Wilson of Kaukauna and Weyauwega's Keith French were among the 29 state football coaches honored by the Wisconsin Coaches Association at a luncheon Saturday morning.

Wilson and French, whose teams had unbeaten records, were presented with certificates of merit by Neenah coach Marlon Batterman, president of the coaches group.

The 500 coaches present heard Dr. James Russell of Fort Atkinson discuss the medical aspects of the sporting scene.

Dr. Russell, a former University of Wisconsin baseball letterman, declared that the head coach holds the key to the prevention of athletic injuries, that he should be selected carefully and if a school cannot provide a man who is qualified, the activity should be dropped.

The speaker explained that a physician should be present at every contact sport contest. Mouth guards are a must. Dr. Russell stated. He also pointed out that no definite evidence has been uncovered that showed head guards and face guards were responsible for the increase in football deaths last fall.

Cliff Fagan, secretary of the national federation, said there will be few changes in basketball rules next year.

New York Ranger player-coach Doug Harvey, a master of the understatement, was at his understating best Sunday night.

"It looks like it might be pretty close, eh?" Harvey asked after his Rangers blew a two-goal lead and tied Toronto 2-2.

goal came with both teams at full strength.

Only American standout in defeat was Capt. John Mayasich. That final score could have been even less respectable had it not been for the dexterous and repeated poke checks of the Green Bay veterans, who broke up a host of budding Canadian threats with his timely thrusts.

Generally, the Yanks lacked cohesion and "finishing" on attack and brilliance in the nets, where Mike Larson contributed one of his lesser performances. Both of Canada's first two goals might have been routine saves for Larson on a good day.

The first, a "half-speed" shot by Sloan at the 10:08 mark, bounced off Mike's right pad and into the corner of the net. Eight seconds later, Hogan "beat" the still dazed Yanks' net minder out of a melee in front of the cage at 10:16.

Lineup Still Uncertain

APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. (AP) — The new Houston Colts at third; Don Buddin (.263 in 115 games) will field close to a million dollar starting lineup in their National League debut against the Chicago Cubs April 10.

But, even more than the New York Mets who join the Colts in the National League's expansion to 10 teams this season, Houston may prove a million dollar bucks don't go far these days. At least, it doesn't buy much power or pitching.

Colt Manager Harry Craft, last year's member of the Chicago Cub college of coaches, was asked where he thought the new Houston club would finish in its inaugural season.

Craft replied he knew exactly. "We will finish in San Francisco on Sept. 31," he jested.

On the serious side, Craft today couldn't say anything more positive after some three weeks of spring training at this desert spa. Toiling with 42 players still in camp, Craft observed:

Especially uncertain

"The pieces soon will start to fall in place. I could name a few names, but right now I just couldn't give you a starting lineup. The outfield and pitching situation especially is uncertain. We now have 18 pitchers and we're trying to give them all the work we can."

Pressure on Defense Led Bearcat Win

Colorado Coach Says Cincinnati Made Team Jittery

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Defense again proved Cincinnati's best offense.

And the defending national basketball champions can run, pass, jump and shoot with the fireballers.

Speaking of his team's 73-46 trouncing of Colorado in the Midwest NCAA Regional Tournament Saturday night, coach Ed Jucker put it this way:

"Our defensive pressure broke it open for us. All of a sudden we had a 12-point lead. Much of our defense comes from team pride. We feel we're playing offense when we're playing defense."

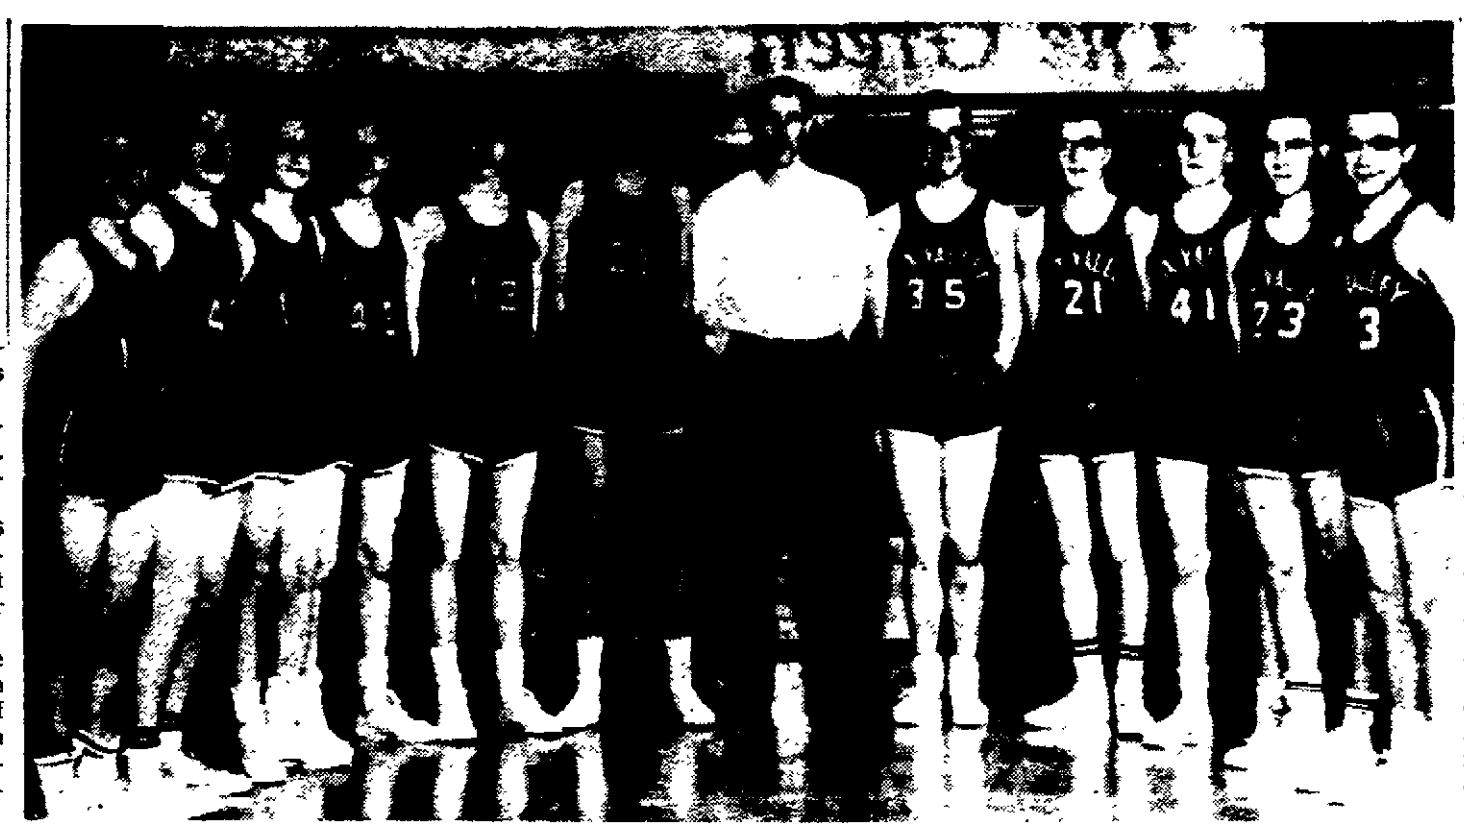

Coach Sox Walseth of Colorado agreed. "The Bearcats' pressure on defense gets you jittery," he said.

The Bearcats, bound for the NCAA semifinals, used great performances by their two surprising, poised rookie starters, George Wilson and Ron Bonham, plus effective rebounding by star Paul Hogue to outclass the Buffaloes, kings of the Big Eight.

Going into the regional, Colorado's forwards, Ken Charlton, Wilky Gilmore and Jim Davis, had averaged 44.6 points a game. Against Cincinnati, they managed 32. Gilmore had the team high of 15.

By way of contrast, the Bearcats' front line, scored this way: Hogue 22, Wilson 19 and Bonham 17.

Off the boards, Hogue, with support from Wilson, Bonham, Tony Yates and Tom Thacker, gave Cincinnati a 45-35 advantage.

Byrnes Opposes Tax Measures

State Republican Objects to Action By House Committee

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. John W. Byrnes, R., Green Bay, disassociated himself from action of the House Ways and Means Committee, of which he is a ranking Republican member, in doling out "hands-outs" to the various states and "windfalls" to corporations.

Stating that although the House Ways and Means committee is supposed to be an advocate of "fiscal prudence" because it is charged with providing the necessary moneys to run the government through taxation, Byrnes charged that the Democratic members of the committee out-ruled Republicans during the past week or ten days in approving measures which will result in "adding to the national deficit which will require legislation increasing the debt limit beyond the expected $3 billion figure."

First Action

The first action of the committee was in approving a bill dealing with public welfare which was also passed by the House Friday and which would permit the Federal government to pay a larger share of public assistance funds to the state governments.

Byrnes, who is acting as the top Republican on House Ways and Means since the announced plans for retirement next year of Rep. Noah L. Mason (R., Ill.), tried, unsuccessfully, to persuade the house to accept a different Public Welfare bill. The one finally approved, he said, would provide the states with a hand-out by which they could decrease their own contributions to their public welfare program.

The second action of the committee to which Byrnes took exception was one revamping the tax bill, which he says will cost the taxpayers $15 billion during the year.

Criticizing the Bill as being a "windfall" measure which will benefit government contractors, U.S. flag vessel operators and lessors of equipment, Byrnes charged that it discriminates against "progressive business and small businesses in retail, distribution and service industries."

MADISON (AP) — The Circuit Court trial of three Chicago area men charged in the death of a Sauk County police officer re-cessed at midday Saturday, end-ing the fifth straight week of testimony taking.

Proceedings before Judge Bruce Beilfuss of Neillsville will resume Monday. Some observers look for the prosecution to end its parade of witnesses by the middle of the week. The state has called 39 to the stand and indicated 10 more are likely to be called.

The same observers figure the defense will use at least two weeks to present its side. Each defendant has an attorney.

Accused are Richard Nickl of Prospect Heights, Ill., and Lawrence Nutley, Chicago, both 27 years old, and 23-year-old William Welter of Franklin Park, Ill.

They have been named in first degree murder charges in con-nection with the death of James Jantz, Sauk County patrolman, and the wounding of Lake Delton Police Chief Eugene Kohl.

Three Youths Hurt in Crash Cars Demolished In Collision Near Sherwood

SHERWOOD — Three Fox Cites area teen-agers were injured in a two-car collision just east of here on County Trunk B about 1:15 a.m. Sunday.

Involved were west bound cars driven by Daniel Vardyn Haven, 19, 129 Idlewild, Kaukauna, and Thomas Johnson, 19, 314 E. Ninth St., Kaukauna. County police said the Johnson vehicle apparently rammed Vardyn Haven's car from behind when Vardyn Haven slowed for the nearby State 55 Intersection.

The impact sent Vardyn Haven's car skidding into the right ditch where it overturned. John-son's car swerved across the road, skidded about 150 feet and came to rest at the intersection.

Vardyn Haven suffered stomach and knee injuries, and Johnson suffered injuries to his right fore-arm. Richard Schmitt, 18, of 1308 E. Main St., Little Chute, a pas-senger in the Johnson car, suf-fered a broken right arm. The injured were taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital by Larry's ambulance. Both 1955 model cars were demolished.

Irish Shenanigans, Wearin' O' The Green Part of Elks Club St. Patrick's Day Revelry

Everything was Irish but the pastry Saturday evening when members of the Elks Club held their annual St. Patrick's Day party. The pastry — French — was the only foreigner who gained admittance. Others acquired their Irish blood on a temporary basis, and revelled in the 'wearin' o' the green.'

A cocktail hour was held from 6 to 7 p.m. and dinner was served until 9 p.m. A dance filled the evening's schedule of activities.

Committee members were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Keller, co-chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Acker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Besch, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schumacher, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harrmann, Mr. and Mrs. James Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. William Gmeiner, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Christianson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Koletzke, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hartzheim.

Elmer Kelley, above right, dance chairman, greeted arrivals Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Process as they entered the realm of the leprechauns Saturday evening. The Elks club St. Patrick's Day party included a cocktail hour, dinner and dancing. At right, Mrs. John Dwyer examines the Irish shamrock adorning her husband's tie. ## Keep Ahead Of Home Problems

No one is more lost, it often seems, than the young marrieds moving into a house for the first time.

It can be a hectic experience until they learn to overcome problems inherent in home management. The best advice is the Boy Scout motto, "Be Prepared." Here are some hints along these lines for persons, young or old, moving into a house for the first time.

Get to know your drainage situation thoroughly, before the need arises. Heavier-than-usual rains may not come immediately, but they'll eventually come. A stoppied-up drain can cause untold grief.

Learn the best way to clean and care for your surfacing materials. If you have quality materials in your kitchen and bathroom, all that is needed is an occasional wipe with a damp cloth. You needn't wax real tile, but other materials often require special care.

Check Circuits

Check electrical circuits at the first opportunity. Know which outlets and appliances are on which circuit, and what size fuse is needed. Or, if you have circuit breakers, check their location before the need arises.

Inspect the built-ins and appliances immediately and read the manuals provided by manufacturers. Do the same with plumbing—learn the location of shut-off valves.

Figure out, if possible, a way of entering your home in case you lock yourself out. A spare key hidden somewhere in the yard, an unlocked, accessible window, or putty knife to pry open a rear door may be the answer.

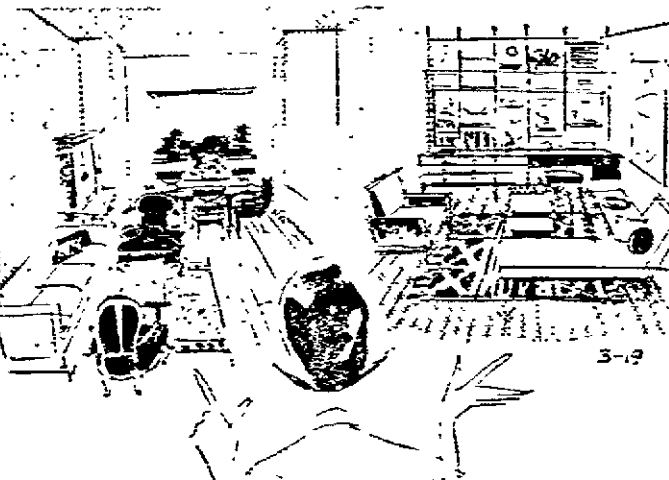

While this is only a sampling of things to do in "getting started" at home keeping, they're some of the basic ones to help you off to a good start.

Auxiliary Officers

Officers of the VFW Auxiliary who were omitted from Friday's listing were Mrs. Richard Hendricks, secretary, Mrs. Gen. Scherke, flag bearer, and Mrs. Ralph Sanders, refreshment committee.

Learning Room Decoration

Three months can make a big difference in how any amateur feels about tackling room decoration. Three months of the pleasantest kind of study on her own, completed by a progress check-up she gives herself. It's amazing how such a project builds confidence, and sometimes turns out to be the discoverer of unexpected tastes.

Make the three months' test by concentrating for that length of time on looking at every home furnishing display there is to see in the stores. Every model room everything pictured in the newspapers and magazines. Use your eyes, really use them, and study what you see. Try to decide why some of it is better than the rest. Find out all you can. You are learning in most practical ways especially because no matter how much or how little decorating theory you know, your eyes must teach you, and because you're encountering real material that's available for your own use. At the end of three months compare what you like and understand with what you liked and understood at the beginning. It may come as quite a shock, but you've learned so much, changed your views so much and acquired such a valuable new stock of opinions, ideas and confidence.

Your Problems

Father-Daughter Attachment Should Not Condemn Husband

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Four years ago my husband became attached to an attractive and lively student in his high school class. She was 35 years his junior. He was friendly with a great many students but this relationship was different. The other students often came to our home. This girl never did.

My husband died suddenly three weeks ago. It was my unpleasant duty to go to the school and remove the personal belongings from his desk. What I found left me dumfounded and heartbroken.

In his appointment book he had recorded light-hearted details of their meetings. They met almost daily for four years. She attended a local college after her high school graduation. I found snapshots of them picnicking, boating and fishing. There were no snap-shots or photographs of me or of his own children—not even in his briefcase.

I don't need advice, Ann—what I need is strength. I'm writing this letter as a warning to others who may be leading a double life in heaven's name, don't leave any evidence around! You never know what tomorrow may have in store for you. —Numb

Dear Friend: While the evidence may be convincing, it is still circumstantial. There is an outside chance that your husband's relationship with this student was a neurotic but still innocent father-daughter attachment.

Please give him the benefit of the doubt since he is not here to defend himself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please say something in your column about those hideous things called suspenders. My husband loves them, but I think they are the ugliest contraptions ever invented.

Last year I bought him two beautiful belts which are still in gift boxes. When I remind him, he says, "I know, I see them every day."

Frequently we go to the homes of friends. If it's an informal party the men remove their coats and I die of embarrassment. A few other husbands wear suspenders and their wives don't like it either.

Don't you feel that a wife has the right to insist that her husband wear a belt if it means so much to her? I've considered throwing out his suspenders which would leave him no choice. Do I have your O.K.? —Bobo Brummel

Dear Bobo: Don't toss out your husband's dearly beloved suspenders. If he dislikes belts he may choose to go without either and then you could be in for even greater embarrassment.

Most men decide on the basis of comfort—and this is one decision no woman can make for her man.

Men's fashion experts claim suspenders do a better job of keeping the trousers up. One expert told me point-blank that a meticulous dresser would never use a belt. Another said "I wear both."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago I was engaged to marry a fine young man. He suffered a complete mental breakdown a few months before the wedding so we postponed everything.

We decided not to marry until we were both sure of his stability. He'd seem fine for a while, then he'd go into a sudden rage, accuse me of far-out things and become violent. Last week he phoned to say he never wanted to see me again and demanded that I return his diamond ring.

Is his shame and guilt responsible for his rejecting me? Is this known as "projection" or "transference"? His doctor will tell me nothing.

Please give me the information I need.—Hazel

Dear Hazel: I am not about to psychoanalyze your boy friend through the mail. My advice to you is return the ring (although it is legally yours) and stop playing doctor. If he has one psychiatrist taking care of him, that's plenty.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcohol-ic" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of "This newspaper" enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Quilted Bar Holds Stole

If you've waded through the closet accessory department of a good store lately, I'm sure you've noticed the quilted stole bars that are on display. I'm sure you've noticed, too, the fancy prices that go with them.

With spring around the corner you'll be taking your fabric stoles out of the bottom drawer, and they'll undoubtedly go back in after each wearing. Wherever you put them in the drawer or on a regular hanger, they'll need pressing before being worn again.

Then of course if you have a fur stole you know that hanging it on a hanger as you would a coat will eventually cause points to form at the shoulders.

The answer is to make a long-size stole bar, similar to but much more decorative than those used by furriers. Just drape your stoles over the bar without folding.

You'll need a piece of quilted fabric measuring 22 inches by 48 inches: a piece of cotton flannel measuring 22 inches by 48 inches. Gift wrapping paper is rolled over this type of tubing .88 inches of the thickest size of cable cord; a bias strip of fabric 46 inches long and 2 inches wide to match the quilted fabric.

Cover the cardboard tube first with cotton flannel for padding, and then with quilted fabric. Slip stretch the long sides together. Leave the ends of the tube open.

Corded Handles

The handles are cable cord covered with a bias strip of fabric. This is made in the same way you would make a corded dress

OES Odile Chapter Practices Initiation

Initiation will be practiced at a meeting of Odile Chapter 184, Order of Eastern Star, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Masonic Temple, Kaukauna.

Mrs. Harry Conkey and Mrs. Woodrow Heilmann are co-chairmen of the refreshment committee and will be assisted by Mrs. Carl Leedke, Mrs. Willard Keough, Mrs. George Keough, Mrs. Ben Simpson, Mrs. Al Niessing, Olin Dryer, Harry Conkey and Mrs. Flora Ladenberger.

Break off the books of two wire coat hangers. Slide covered cord through open ends of cardboard tubing. Push the wire hooks down through each of the cord ends. When hooks are inside, finish the ends so that wire hooks will not pop out. Turn in the loose fabric at each end of the tube and tack, catching the cord at the same time. Before tacking be sure that the cord handles are the same length. Finish off with a flower or satin bow at each end of the roll to hide any stitching and also to decorate.

For a really elegant bar, use quilted velvet for the cover and their embroidery with satin embroidery thread by hand. Or, if you have a zigzag machine, use one of the decorative stitches for embroidery design.

Miss Scott is always glad to hear from her readers, and when ever possible will use their questions in her column, but because of the great volume of mail received daily, she cannot answer individual letters.

row? Now tell me the truth. I Tommy was four years old. He had a sturdy and full of fun. He had no brothers or sisters and he loved company. He usually played in the yard of the neighbors who had several children of about his age. Every time he went home he took something that belonged to the other children and put it in his yard. At first he did not hide his loot but after he had been made to return it, in person he was content to keep it under cover for a while.

His father and mother were frustrated. They feared he might become an out and out thief, and then, too, the neighbors did not like the idea of him and were beginning to treat him when he arrived on set to play.

Today's Etiquette

PROBLEM FRIEND

The mother of one of my husband's pupils at school keeps coming us with invitations to her home for dinner.

The first time we went, we were told, "Never again!" But she is so persistent and we are at our wit's end. We will inevitably have excuses to "forget," but she will always say, "Well, when can you come?" No matter how hard we try, we simply can't manage to get out of it. She is obviously neurotic and her parties are either very unpleasant or boring. We'll be asked to come for dinner at 7, then dinner will be served at 11 or 11:30. This means very late hours and a baby sitter for our two children. The other day this woman called again and said, "You have been here for dinner five times now. You should realize that you must return the favor." There was nothing to do but to invite her and she came wearing slacks. How are we to call it quits?

Louise Davis Answers:

When this woman called to remind you, perhaps you could have said, "I'll give you a ring before long and we'll plan to get together at our house." I admit that my suggestion isn't exactly honest, but people who are neurotic or mentally ill must be handled differently when it is necessary to take a firm hand to end the relationship if that is what you and your husband intend to do. Turning down her invitations because of previous commitments and re-laying your own invitation might widen the gap. If this woman is mentally ill, I have a good guess that drastic steps will be taken by her family to get her in the hands of a psychiatrist.

A Lovelier You

Posture Line-Up

Do your skirts forever hike up in front and dip in back? If so the chances are the fault lies not with your skirts but with your posture.

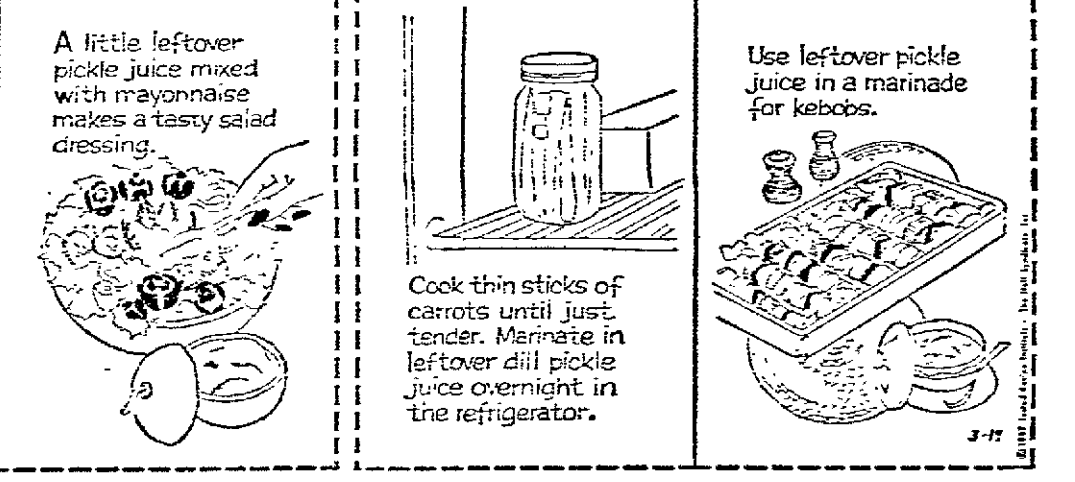

This particular error in carriage is known as "sway back." You can tell whether you have it by this test: Weight one end of a tape measure. Then stand in profile before a long mirror and hold the unweighted end of the tape to the tip of your ear; drop the weighted end.

Now note the fall of the tape. Does it pass behind your shoulder joint, your hip joint and the center of your foot? A "yes" answer indicates more than a touch of sway back, and also the need for correction. Left to itself, sway back causes more than a sagging hemline. Your back takes on a concave curve and your abdomen develops a pouch.

One small adjustment in your stance goes a long way toward improvement. Simply school your self to stand with your weight centered on the balls of your feet. Your main difficulty has been improper weight balance — you jam your weight on your heels, an action that throws you off balance and tips you backward.

Once you center your weight correctly, your posture immediately improves. Gradually your back and abdominal muscles gain ability. Send for "Clues To Good Strength and their new holding Carriage." my leaflet giving complete instructions on shoes, stockings and walking techniques that enhance both carriage and leg line. 'Kennedy Look' Sets Pace In International Fashions

BY PEG ZWECKER

Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — The fashion image of "The Kennedy Look" is pure magic.

Why is it so important? It's the greatest force in international fashion today. Fashion expresses and reflects our way of life, and First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy stands for the elegant young movement in fashion today. She's making fashion history. Mystery abounds. No great woman of fashion has ever revealed her secrets and Mrs. Kennedy has insisted that her wardrobe be kept a mystery.

The White House says, "Play down fashion .... keep it quiet." It must play second fiddle to politics. But, never, in our American history has such a fashion storm been churned.

"The American Queen" they're calling her wherever she goes in India.

Fabulous Wardrobe

What does her fabulous wardrobe really include?

The White House politely says that "it includes designs by Otis Cassini, Fred Nimon and Gustave Tassell." "Any descriptive material," said Press Secretary Pamela Turnure, "would come out from India and Pakistan in connection with a particular occasion."

Cassini is the official designer; Nimon is the Park Avenue salon where Mrs. K. spent an hour and a half examining the latest from Paris before leaving for Rome and where she buys her custom-made retail, and California designer Tassell is a current Cervantes winner.

Everyone agrees what they created. That is to be expected, but if you have followed closely this best-dressed young lady it is easy to recognize the sources.

Big brims and berets in orchard and snow make the millinery news. Hair bows nestle in her bouffant coil. And, don't overlook the traditional lace mantilla with long black dress, that she wore to appear before Pope John originally came out of India's state of Jodhpur.

You can be sure that all were Hers were in light tan to match the black hunting cap.

Halston Frowick, who heads the black hunting cap.

She is most colorful. It stands made-to-order millinery department of Bergdorf Goodman, and out in the uncluttered and unwhispered elegance of all her pear on Vogue's Easter cover, solid color costumes.

Watch the trend to big off-the-trimmed hats and back-of-the-head berets to take over like her pillbox of last season.

For the first time Mrs. Kennedy is traveling with a wig, her best defense against the heat and humidity in India. Made by Kenneth of Lilly Dache, it's in the flared skirt and her popular First Lady's shade of dark brown or heeled shoe.

Watch her bring back the princess line neth let the First Lady take his coat on this tour. It is a white assistant, Mary Farr, on tour, double breasted Givenchy coat.

For this 15,000 mile trip in 20 with six large black crystal burdys to Italy, India and Pakistan.

The evening scene will bring tan, what else is important, that she has chosen to wear the fitted, princess line neth let the First Lady take his coat on this tour. It is a white assistant, Mary Farr, on tour, double breasted Givenchy coat.

Jack Play Stuns Foo

There's something about a jack that hypnotizes your opponents into playing low. There can be no other reasonable explanation of what happened in this hand.

Declarer won the first trick in the dummy with the ace of diamonds and immediately returned the jack of clubs. This was the hypnotic card.

East played the deuce of clubs as innocently as he could. He thought declarer had K-x or K-x-x of clubs, in which case East wanted declarer to let the jack of clubs ride for a losing finesse.

The story would have been much the same if East held the king of clubs instead of the ace.

East would have played low, and West would have been forced to win the first club trick.

Returns Diamond

In this case West won with the king of clubs and led another diamond. South won with the king of diamonds, drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, and then led a third trump to West's queen.

Now the contract was home. West could not develop a heart trick in time to defeat the contract. South could surely set up dummy's clubs and discard two hearts on them.

East could defeat the contract by stepping up with the ace of clubs at the second trick. He then leads a heart, and West is sure to make a heart trick.

When East fails to play high, West can defeat the contract by returning a club at the third trick. There is still time for East to lead a heart.

Key to Defense

The key to the defense is dummy's long club suit and the singleton ace of diamonds. East should see that he will need a heart trick to defeat the contract and that he must develop that trick before dummy's clubs come in. That should make it easier for him to find the right easier at and five cents in coin.

'Kami' Mystical Guide to Action For All Japanese Shinto Believers

It's Unknown Something That Includes Idea Of Justice, Order, Force of Creation

BY DAVE MEADE
Chicago Daily News Service

TOKYO — The important thing is to know kami.

If you know that, the rest comes naturally. You revere your parents. You love your neighbor. You're loyal to those over you from the straw rags at work to the emperor.

"When we know kami," the youth-looking Shinto scholar explained, "in our mind there will be an attitude which is humble, but still joyous."

It's had to put anyone down or just what "kami" means.

To some it means duty to others the divine quality of existence.

There are many kami in Japanese mythology and history —

First of Series

Gods and spirits of beings who founded a people and molded their way of life through more than 2,000 years.

Guide To Action

Naefusa Hirai, executive secretary of the Institute for Japanese Culture and Classics and a teacher at Kokugakuin University, pointed out how the kami way guides your actions.

The foundation of Shinto ethics, he said, is not a set of moral principles like the Ten Commandments of Judaism and Christianity. It's a "basic life attitude."

"Kami gave us life, and our mission in this world is to fulfill our life and realize our ideals as much as possible... to seek for a better tomorrow."

"Our energy, or ability, is quite limited. But when death comes we can trust that our ideals will be sought by our descendants and followers."

Shinto optimism brightens even the prospect of death.

Death means returning to the source of our life, the bosom of the great kami, "Hirai said."

The word shinto literally means "kami way."

No Absolute Deity

But even though the term kami is customarily translated to mean deity or deities, the Shinto religion has no absolute deity that is creator and ruler of all.

What are some of the characteristics of this kami-faith, the racial religion of more than 65,000,000 Japanese?

Kami, according to Hirai, is the inexpressible "unknown something" through whom man can understand the "way of kami."

The way involves six concepts:

1. The "mysterious power of becoming," the force of all creation.
2. The source of life.
3. The "truth itself."
4. One's basic life attitude.
5. The source of the ultimate meaning of life.
6. The "solidarity of history, culture and society."

Shinto Ideal

The Shinto ideal, Hirai believes, is two-fold.

To solve ultimately the many problems of man—fear of death, sickness, poverty, "bad results of destiny," in fact any kind of frustration.

To realize peace, security and welfare of both Japan and the world.

"The kami concept today includes the idea of justice, order and divine favor, and implies the basic principle that the kami function harmoniously in co-operation with one another and rejoice in the evidence of harmony and co-operation in this world."

Distinction between good and evil is possible "when there is a state of unity between the divine and the human, when man can approach the kami with a clear bright mind in worship."

How can you know kami? There are many ways, according to Hirai.

"Some know through mystical experience, prayer, or chanting scriptures."

"My way of knowing kami is to see carefully our life and our world. Through its working function, we understand kami, even sport, day, dance, work, travel, though we cannot see it directly."

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—North Kitsap school directors have come into possession of a dozen graves.

It dates back to some 50 years ago. The Vinland Lutheran Church congregation backed an acre out of the wilderness for a cemetery.

County Commissioner Henry Brown said the church is entitled to its lost graves and the deed will be changed.

Door County Plan Project First of Kind

Federal, Local State Funds Will Survey Recreational Area

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A comprehensive development plan for Door County that has been authorized by the U. S. Urban Renewal Agency, is the first of its kind for a recreational district in the United States, the head of the State Department of Resource Development said Saturday.

The project will be financed with a budget of about $41,000 in federal, state and county funds, including a $27,000 federal grant.

David Carley, state agency director, said his department will handle the planning project and that it will hire a planning engineer who will make his headquarters in Sturgeon Bay.

He said one of the principal objectives will be to develop a model recreational development plan with emphasis in zoning as a means of protecting the outstanding natural resources of the area.

The zoning plans will probably be useful also in other counties of upper Wisconsin concerned about the future management of recreational resource pressures, he added.

Carley said his department is interested in the prospects for rebuilding or otherwise improving the Sturgeon Bay docks.

The state agency has applications for U. S. redevelopment assistance on file in Washington on behalf of four other northern Wisconsin counties, but the Door County grant is the first involving a county-wide plan that has been approved in Wisconsin.

The federal program normally is concerned primarily with urban renewal.

Two Johnsons May be Candidates In Wisconsin's Ninth District

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The prospect of a contest for an important office involving identical names has popped up in western Wisconsin, where two Johnsons may be rivals for the Ninth District congressional seat.

Rep. Lester Johnson of Black River Falls, longtime Democratic incumbent, will run for re-election without any worries about his party's nomination.

Republicans have been hunting a suitable aspirant for the congressional place on their ticket, and are considering Assemblyman Robert Johnson of Mondovi, who is reported by his friends to be interested.

David Adamany, a young Green Bay lawyer who is now a part-time teacher at the Law School of the University of Wisconsin, will be a key aide in the gubernatorial campaign of Attorney General John W. Reynolds. He has been a campaign associate of Reynolds since he ran for the attorney general's office four years ago.

Republicans will hold their annual $100-a-plate fund raising dinner in Milwaukee in the spring, at a date not yet chosen. It will depend upon the availability of Sen. Barry Goldwater, wanted by most of the state committee members as a speaker. Goldwater has drawn well at similar functions in the past.

Some Republicans are surprised about the apparent lack of competition for the party's nomination for lieutenant governor so far.

At least two prominent Republican state senators are known to harbor private ambitions for that place on the ticket this year, but they have yet made no moves. The field may be entirely clear for the uncontested endorsement and nomination of Jack Olson, the Wisconsin Dells businessman.

Republican campaigners and organization men are talking about the improving platform style of Secretary of State Robert C. Zimmerman, the most energetic campaigner in current state politics.

In six years of practice the secretary has developed a poise and presence on the stump that compares favorably with those of most of his campaigning contemporaries. But Zimmerman rigidly avoids controversial or political topics, confines his remarks to homilies on citizenship and its obligations, the importance of building party organization and getting out the vote and related matter.

The impression widely circulated during the last days of the legislative session that the new state personnel law removes the personnel bureau from Joe Nussbaum's department of administration is not correct.

The new law set up the rule-making board of personnel on an independent basis, and enlarged it from three to five members. But the bureau, with its 50 operating employees, remains under the wing of the administration department and therefore subject to the control of the commissioner who is in turn subject to the direction of the governor.

There is no special worry about improper interference under Nusbaum's command, but there are some persons concerned about the permanent integrity of the state civil service system who wonder what the future may bring.

Gov. Nelson soon will have the chance to name a fifth regent of the University of Wisconsin. There is very little doubt that he will replace Harold Konnak of Racine, a hold-over from the preceding Republican regimes, and thus provide a majority of the board of his own choosing. The University campus community hears that he will choose another representative from the southeastern area to replace Konnak, a lawyer.

There is a general public assumption in the perennial disposition about the question of the proper legal age for beer consumption by young people, that the choices are 18 years or 21 years.

But that does not necessarily follow, as the deliberations of the legislative council committee studying problems of juvenile drinking currently show. The committee has polled town chairmen of the state for their preferences in the way of a uniform law, and suggested that they respond on four alternatives, 18, 19, 20 and 21 years.

The local government leaders are also being asked whether they favor a state-wide and uniform of control law to replace the local option system which appears to be losing support steadily. The town board reactions are likely to be as persuasive in the final at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. The legislative show - down as any part of the new season is not at all other evidence that may be put into the record.

Spring Comes, But It Isn't Joyful to All

Bachelors Rejoice, But Husbands Try To Stay in Hiding

BY DICK LYNEIS

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Some men are naive.

To them the arrival of spring means fishing, golf and thoughts of love.

Not only are these men naive—they're also bachelors.

Others are more realistic about the arrival of spring in the area.

It's hard for a man to tell what gets into a housewife at this time of year.

This ritual seems to be one room a day, from the ceiling, down the walls (including draperies and curtains) and finally to the floor. Between the ceiling and the floor we find pictures, knick-knack shelves, windows and all the other furnishings which usually mean comfortable living.

However, in the spring these furnishings don't mean comfort, they mean backaches.

A lot of men would never stand for these disruptions in their easy life. But they don't dare take the interruptions lying down for if they do, chances are they freeze to death.

Housewives Need "Airing"

Because at this time of year women get the fanatical urge that houses need "airing." If a man comes up with a bad case of pneumonia.

As a result, no matter what Tuesday night, we're cornered.

Deer Kill by Dogs Called 'Critical'

Wardens Fear Increased Toll; Prepare to Take Action

CLINTONVILLE — Dogs permitted to run loose in the woods have killed at least 13 deer in the Clintonville area and conservation wardens fear the toll will increase during the waning days of winter.

Warden Ken Corbett, Clintonville, said the 13 kills noted thus far have been confirmed. He said he had a report Sunday from conservation officials at Wautoma that 17 deer in one herd had been killed by dogs.

The situation, the warden said, is critical now because conditions are good for dog kills. Slight crusting of the still deep drifts permits dogs to travel at fast speeds. Deer, on the other hand, have a miserable time getting around, Corbett explained.

Winded Easily

The long-legged animals break through the crust, and the drifts, in most cases, brings the snow up to the animals' bellies. When pursued by dogs the deer become winded easily and, when exhausted, are fairly easy prey for the marauding canines.

Corbett said the condition appears to be general in Wisconsin. He said Outagamie Warden Chuck Wranosky reports dog kill problems in the Black Creek region of his territory.

Any dog, Corbett said, becomes a potential deer killer if permitted to roam at large in the woods. Even small dogs, sometimes considered to be house dogs, will attack a deer if given a chance, he declared.

Drastic Steps

The warden indicated that he and the rest of the law enforcement branch are prepared to take drastic steps to reduce the kill by dogs.

Any dogs found running deer will be shot on the spot, Corbett said. "We can't afford to take any more chances with our deer herd." Owners of such dogs will be arrested and brought into court on a civil charge of damaging the state's deer herd, he said.

The only final solution to the problem, in the view of the warden, is for owners to keep their dogs tied until the ground is free of snow. He issued an appeal, and a warning, to farmers and persons living in rural areas to control their dogs now. "We'll all be in for a lot of trouble if they don't," Corbett declared.

Deputies Stage Several Visits To Beer Bars

Find Two Girls Underage in One; Gambling Found

A series of "visits" to between 10 and 15 Outagamie County taverns by nine county law enforcement officers Friday may result in charges against a Freedom tavern owner.

Sheriff Robert Heinritz said today that nine men, including four uniformed policemen, two investigators, two deputies and himself checked beer and liquor bars Friday night for tavern law violations.

Two 17-year-old girls found in a Freedom bar were brought to the sheriff's department where statements were taken from them. The sheriff said he is seeking warrants for selling beer to minors and allowing minors to loiter.

Card Game

Heinritz said in one beer bar a card game involving money was under way in an upstairs room when police walked in. The men involved have been ordered to report to the sheriff's office today.

The tavern owner was instructed to see to it there was no gambling in the building, and a building inspector will be asked to check the premises to see if it complies with building regulations.

Heinritz added that while his car was parked behind one beer bar, the police radio microphone was torn out of it.

'Alice' Contest Plans Explained

New London Civic Groups Hear Requirements for Selection

NEW LONDON — Preliminary plans for the May 26 Alice In Dairyland regional contest were made at a meeting Saturday.

Charles Kingeter, a representative of the State Department of Agriculture, explained the requirements for the contest to representatives of the New London Lions Club, directors of Pure Milk Products and Mayor Walter Fredericks.

Candidates participating in the contest will be from Waupaca, Portage, Waushara, Marquette, Green Lake, Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties.

Winners of the state regional contests will participate in the state final contest at Menominee June 7-9 where the 1962 Alice in Dairyland will be named.

The New London regional contest will include a parade, a noon luncheon and banquet where the winner will be named.

Along with the contest, dairy products will be promoted in the city. Raymond Kirchner, Clintonville, a representative of Pure Milk Products, told the group a milk drinking contest is being planned between Clintonville and New London and plans are being made to determine if the Alice contest and the milk drinking contest could be held the same day.

Kingeter said the present Alice in Dairyland is visiting college campuses throughout the state to encourage girls to enter the contest. To enter the contest girls must submit an application before April 30, he said.

Emil Gehrke and A. W. Voiz, co-chairmen of the contest, will attend a meeting with county agents soon. The meeting will be at Wautoma, the site of last year's regional contest.

Present at Saturday's meeting were Louis Sheahan, Emil Gehrke, Eugene Fuhrman, all members of the New London Lions Club; Mayor Walter Fredericks; Fred Larson, Leon Thoma and Raymond Kirchner, representatives of Pure Milk Products; Joe Walker, Waupaca County agent, and Charles Kingeter, State Department of Agriculture.

Absentee ballots are available at the clerk's office.

Any registered voter who expects to be absent from the city on election day, and persons who cannot go to the polls because of sickness, physical disability or religious convictions may vote by absentee ballot.

Persons in the military service may use absentee ballots. The clerk's office has sent out nearly 150 ballots to service men and women.

Those who wish to vote by absentee ballot can apply at the clerk's office in person or by letter.

7th Catholic Parish Planned for City

$50,000 Set Aside for New School, Church

A seventh Roman Catholic parish for Appleton, another offshoot of St. Therese Parish, is in the early planning stages, the office of Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona, Green Bay, announced today.

The Rev. E. A. Wagner, pastor of St. Therese, said Sunday that a preliminary $50,000 is being budgeted against the day the new church and school will be built.

Owens Land

The diocese owns 9.75 acres of land in Glendale Acres, originally a part of Randall's Woods which was sold several years ago for residential development. The site is bounded by Glendale Avenue on the north, McDonald Street on the west and Woodland Avenue on the south.

The new parish will include about 400 families from the northeast portion of St. Therese Parish. St. Therese now has a membership of about 1,500 families.

St. Pius X parish is the other offshoot of St. Therese. It was formed in 1957 with about 400 families, and now has a membership of 636 families. The church and school were built at 500 W. Marquette St.

St. Therese parish also is allocating money in its budget for a parish activities building and youth center, with $35,000 a year being set aside for it. Plans are indefinite as to when the center will be built, what it will include and where on the church property it will be located, Father Wagner said.

Appleton's newest Catholic parish is St. Bernadette parish, created in southeast Appleton in 1960 through a division of Sacred Heart Parish.

Find King Home Not Crowded

Veteran Affairs Board Says There Are 70 Vacancies

An anticipated crowded condition at the Grand Army Home for Veterans at King has not developed, a meeting of the state board of veterans' affairs has discovered.

The home has vacancies for about 70 residents with a capacity at 500. A study made 10 years ago indicated that by 1962 the home would have to have a capacity of 1,000 to keep up with the demand.

Reasons for the lack of demand for space were listed as advanced medical improvements and social security benefits which have cut down the demand for care.

John R. Moses, director of the department of veterans' affairs said at one time veterans came to King as soon as they stopped working because social security and other pensions did not provide enough money for them to live on.

Hospital Crowded

The veterans now only come if they are sick or physically unfit to care for themselves. As a result, the hospital at King is crowded, but the cottages and residences have vacancies.

May, Gen. Ralph J. Olson, chairman of the board, suggested that King needed a nursing home and a study commission will be appointed to study this.

They drove the car to a dance till it ran low on gasoline, then parked it and stole a car owned by Robert Greiner, Freedom, from near Haha's Bowling Lanes, 618 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Unit Urges Open School Meetings

State Association Tells Boards to Use Executive Privilege Sparingly

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—The Wisconsin Association of School Boards has published a recommended resolution asserting that "all school board meetings shall be open to the public at all times," and urging the use of the executive session privilege with "much discretion."

The association said it had adopted the policy statement on the basis of a report of a joint committee also representing school administrators and organized teachers of the Wisconsin public school system. The resolution, which touches on other school policy matters, is contained in the current bulletin of the state-wide federation of local school boards.

The statement advised that all meetings of school boards should be open to the public, and that no matter should be proposed, deliberated or acted upon at any closed executive session or closed meeting except these:

Personnel Problem

Consideration of a specific personnel problem unless an open meeting is requested by the employee involved.

Consideration of the purchase of property, investment of funds which for competitive reasons or bargaining reasons requires closed sessions.

Counselling with the school board attorney.

Discussion of personal histories, disciplinary matter or other information which may be hurtful to reputations.

A 1959 state law explicitly requires open meetings of all public bodies, including school boards. The apparent intention of the association resolution is to urge literal compliance with the anti-secrecy law.

Nobel Winner Picketed at State Speech

MADISON (AP) — A crowd of 700 and a few demonstrators turned out Sunday night to hear controversial Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel Prize winning scientist and peace advocate.

Pauling's appearance at the First Congregational Church was sponsored by the Madison Friends Meeting, Madison Peace Defender and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Pauling said the Constitution guarantees the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and added, "It is the right of people to change the government when it threatens their safety and happiness. We are not safe nor happy so we must change these governments." He did not name the governments.

There is no solution to world peace, Pauling said, without disarmament of Central Europe, but the United States is afraid to disarm the area because it fears the loss of West Germany would destroy the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Pauling's appearance was protested in resolutions approved earlier by the American Legion and the Military Order of World Wars. Two groups, identifying themselves as the Christian Advance and the Fundamental Bible Church, distributed leaflets in front of the church. They quoted U.S. Senate internal security subcommittee testimony saying Pauling "had a marked bias for Communist causes."

Investigation Of Market to Be Enlarged

50 Corporations to Be Asked for More Details on Dealings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission is asking about 50 corporations to detail all recent public relations dealings with financial writers, securities analysts and brokers.

The aim is to find out more about the impact of promotional campaigns on stock prices. Also, the agency wants to know if false or misleading information has been circulated in an attempt to manipulate market prices.

Announcing its move today, the SEC said it is sending the corporations a special questionnaire "in order to ascertain the nature and extent of their financial public relations activities during the past few years."

Replies will be analyzed as part of the commission's broad study of the securities industry, ordered by Congress last year.

Corporations were told that their inclusion in the study "should not be regarded as any reflection upon your company or anyone connected with it, or upon any public relations firm or consultant which may have been retained by your company."

Officials said the corporations represent a broad cross-section. They range from very small to very large firms and the markets for their securities vary from the New York Stock Exchange to local over-the-counter markets. The SEC declined to identify the companies questioned.

Plan Drive Toward Economic Literacy

BY SYLVIA PORTER
For the first time in our history, a direct, intensive coordinated drive is underway to make the American public economically literate — so we can understand the democratic system we profess to love and we will be able to reach sound decisions on how to improve and defend it against its enemies with as well as without.

Today, the Committee for Economic Development released an 11-point program to reduce economic illiteracy which culminates 13 years of work by leading members of the economics and education professions and civic groups. The report will lay the foundation for a vastly stepped up effort to promote economics education in our schools.

Survival Plan Held Up During Shelter Survey

Waupaca County to Submit Schedule to State in Near Future

NEW LONDON — A Civil Defense survival plan for Waupaca County has been held up pending completion of a community fallout shelter survey. The over-all plan will be submitted to the state soon, James Smith, county director said.

With the use of community shelters, Smith said, more food and supplies will be required than if individuals built and stocked their own shelters. This idea, he said, has caused a revamping of the original plan.

According to a monthly civil defense news bulletin, Waupaca County is one of 11 in the state with little or no reported CD survival planning.

Arrangements already have been made with the Waupaca city clerk to sign for shipments of fallout shelter supplies to be stored in the Waupaca armory pending completion of community fallout shelters.

No Plan
Even though the county has no plan, Smith said, cities in the county have organized civil defense units and are partially equipped. They include New London, Waupaca, Clintonville and Manawa.

New London has a 29-man unit that has completed first aid, police and fire and life saving training. The unit is equipped with personal equipment including raincoats, helmets, night sticks and badges. Richard Berglund, New London civil defense director, said all equipment has been paid for by the city because matching funds are not available from the government. Whenever the matching funds do become available, Berglund said, a new CD warning system will be purchased. The present fire siren on top of the city hall does not give adequate coverage of the city.

The Clintonville CD unit, under the direction of Virgil Vinquist, is composed of 20 trained men, a fully equipped rescue truck and a CD warning system separate from the fire warning system.

Men Trained
The eight-man unit at Manawa is headed by Gordon Hutchinson. The men of the unit are trained and equipped with personal equipment and uniforms purchased by the city.

The Waupaca CD unit has 18 men trained in first aid, police and fire work and life saving. The unit, headed by Fred Rasmussen, also has a rescue vehicle.

Before matching funds are made available, a rescue unit must be a four wheel drive truck, Smith said.

Besides the equipment that city units have, Smith said, he has obtained a 200-bed emergency hospital from the State Board of Health. The unit is valued at $23,000 and is stored at the King Veterans Hospital.

Smith, a part time director, who is paid by the county, said he also is working on obtaining communications equipment that can be used by amateur radio operators in time of an emergency.

He said Shawano County has had a CD communications system in operation and in neighboring Outagamie County, plans are being made to equip Appleton with a warning system at an estimated cost of $68,000. One-half of this amount will be paid for by the government, he said.

This September, the "College of the Air" (CBS network) will begin a series of 160 half-hour sessions, five days a week, on economics and methods for teaching the subject. The course also will be shown by independent and educational TV stations and if past experience is repeated, it will reach 75 per cent of all the teachers of social studies and business education in the country.

7,000 Publications
Meanwhile, the Center for Economic Education at the University of Illinois has just finished screening 7,000 publications, has come up with 97 study materials suitable and useful for high school education. The CED and the Joint Council on Economic Education have sent a sample packet of the materials to each of the nation's 25,000 high schools. Right now, a special committee headed by Dr. John M. Stalmaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corp., is writing basic tests which will measure how much economics knowledge students are absorbing. The tests are scheduled for completion next spring.

At last, the attack on economic illiteracy is getting into high gear. Each new move is sure to multiply into more moves, multiply again.

As of this day in March 1962, we are a nation of economic illiteracy — and despite all the efforts of those of us who care, the fact remains, as the CED puts it, that "the level of economic literacy of our nation's youth remains abysmally low." Almost 90 per cent of our citizens must rely on high schools for their economics training but less than one-fourth of the nation's high school teachers are prepared to teach the subject. Only 18 states require even one college course in economics for certification to teach in the social sciences. Of those who go to college, only 25 per cent take a single course in economics.

Qualified Teachers
So great is the shortage of teachers that when a large Midwestern city decided to make economics a required course in its high schools in 1960, it could find only 17 qualified teachers—it needed 300.

The goals for economic education are extraordinarily fuzzy; many efforts made by business and labor have been so obviously biased that the "education" has been worse than nothing. Study materials, textbooks and tests have been grossly inadequate.

Enough. We've been graduating generation upon generation of Americans without the simplest analytical tools of economic reasoning.

Now, though, the CED has put the pieces together, come up with a program, spent considerable money on research and offered us all a springboard from which to step upward. Among its proposals are:

At Least One Course

(1) At least one semester course devoted to economics should be required at the end of the high school years

(2) Youngsters should be exposed to elementary notions of the division of labor, prices, the function of profits, savings, investment — from the first grade on. Arithmetic, geography, history offer superb opportunities for introducing economic concepts.

(3) The "College of the Air" course should be followed by all teachers in the social sciences and until better textbooks are written, the packet of study material chosen by the experts can be used to introduce economics into the high schools.

Often over the years, I've written that the danger is we'll destroy our great system not deliberately but in ignorance of what we're doing. Perhaps this day and this year mark a turn toward achievement of the economics understanding imperative to our society's survival.

Rubbers, Utilities Firm as Market Becomes Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—Utilities and rubbers were firm in an irregular stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .10 at 261.90 with industrials unchanged, rails off .20 and utilities up .30.

Changes of most key stocks were fractional.

Steels were mixed. A decline in durable goods demand had little effect on electrical equipment makers.

Groups Mixed

Consolidated laundries dropped around 3 points.

U. S. Smelting advanced another point. Dow Chemical lost about 2.

Montgomery Ward and Armour were up more than a point.

A drop of about a point for Du Pont and more than a point by Union Carbide dampened the chemical section.

Motors were narrowly mixed. Utilities produced a string of small gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.38 at 721.39.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U. S. government bonds edged upward.
